

Article would change sewer funding formula

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington voters will have their chance to vote on an article in April which could increase the town's share of sewer projects from 50 percent up to 100 percent of construction costs.

The Sewer Funding Advisory Board unanimously directed Town Counsel Alan Altman on Monday to come up with an article changing the language in the betterment law, also known as Section six of Chapter 297 of Massachusetts General Law. Currently, the law directs the town to pick up half of sewer construction costs while abutters, who directly benefit from the sewer, pick up the remaining cost in the form of betterments. In the past, that cost was alleviated by government grants. The new article will ask that the town pay up to 100 percent of a project's cost. The Water and Sewer Commission will bring each project to town meeting and, at that time, propose a split between abutters and the town. The advisory board felt it was best to come in with a formula that would be flexible enough to change depending on the facts of each project. Though some members, like Paul Palizzolo and Joan O'Rourke, felt uncomfortable with the 100 percent figure and preferred something less to force abutters to pay their share, it was argued that sewer lines could conceivably run along railroad tracks, main highways, or vacant lots with no abutters to pay the cost.

The advisory board, whose last meeting was Monday night, was formed by the town manager to come up with a more equitable way to share the burden of sewer costs. Chairman George Allan noted that his board was only to address construction costs. Current sewer users also pay an average cost of $1,000 to connect the line to their homes and a quarterly usage charge based on water consumption. Allan pointed out that sewer costs are escalating with the MWRA (Massachusetts Water Resource Authority) assessment cost increasing from three quarters of a million dollars in 1991 to an estimated $1.5 million in 1994 and the average annual residential sewer bill rising from $210 in 1989 to $385 in 1992. Allan said he had a friend whose water and sewer bill combined exceeds his tax bill.

"And that is wrong," said Allan. Altman was present to advise the board on the best way to address the law to create a more flexible formula for future sewer projects. He said the best solution would be to seek a change in the present restrictive legislation by using a percentage for the town's share. Altman told Paul Radochia it wouldn't be advisable to put a ceiling on the betterment portion because there would be variables in each project which could drive up the cost.

"As long as we are fair and equitable across the board, no one would have a gripe," Altman said.

Palizzolo argued it would be more palatable to have those who are benefitting pay a portion of the cost. He added the article would be "a tough pill to swallow" without "ownership" built into the article. When Water Supt. Paul Niman said the Water and Sewer Commission would try to keep betterments fairly uniform, Palizzolo noted voters in Wilmington may not go along with the commission's view.

Looking at another issue, Niman said he feared a lawsuit if abutters currently paying betterments seek reimbursement. Town Accountant Michael Morris pointed out government doesn't normally give a refund if it changes a policy or law.

"I don't want to expose us to that," said Niman.

Tony Capuano, a candidate for selectman in April's election, urged the board to change the formula to avoid "a double whammy" to citizens paying betterments and the cost of sewer debt service. He added the most important issue is one of relief, especially from rising MWRA rates.

"How do you give some relief to those who are on it right now?" asked Capuano, who is himself a sewer user.

Allan said perhaps a second committee could be formed to meet with other MWRA towns on the problem. Capuano agreed with the suggestion.

At the end of the discussion, Allan noted his committee had tried to involve the public in the decision-making process.

"We've tried our best to get the issues out," he said.

WHS relay team

ALL-STATE CHAMPS

Fast foursome

WHS tracksters Tom Zaya, Tom Aprile, Tom Killilea and Dan Ballou were honored in an assembly in the Cushing Gymnasium on Wednesday. The WHS boys' mile relay team won the All-State championship Sunday at the All-State Track Meet at Harvard University. At left is coach Bob Cripps.

People at the All-State Track Meet Sunday were asking "Who the hell is Wilmington? Where did they come from?"

The Wilmington High School boys' mile relay team pulled a surprise upset, beating the favored Brockton team by a half second in the All-State Track Meet at Harvard University. Their time, 3:24.54, was a meet record.

It is the first time in the history of Wilmington High School that there has been an all-state champion in any sport.

The starter on the team is Tom Zaya. Second is Tom Killilea. Number three runner is Tom Aprile. He ran his quarter mile in 50.5 seconds. The finisher is Dan Ballou, who came in at 49.53.

Backup man on the team is Dennis Godin.

Athletic Director Jim Gillis told the student body in an assembly on Wednesday that the team is "no longer a secret." He said he was trying to come up with a name for the team. There are three boys named Tom, he said, but that guy Dan ruins everything.

Since they run like missiles, they could be likened to the Tomahawk missile. "So we'll have to call Danny Hawk," he said.

Winter track coach Bob Cripps said he had been telling the boys for four years they could be state champs. "A lot of people thought I was crazy."

"They are the best mile relay team the state of Massachusetts has ever seen," said Cripps.

School board eyes $12.9m budget

by Arlene Surprenant
School Supt. Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell said Thursday the school department and the Wilmington School Committee will have to change the way they look at things in order to meet the needs of students as the system moves into the 21st Century. Dr. O'Donnell made a number of observations on how the system has to change as she explained her budget priorities at the last meeting of the budget sub-committee.

The sub-committee has been meeting on a regular basis to look at budget requests of principals and department heads and to formulate the school department's proposed budget for FY 1994. School committee members Brad Jackson and Shirley Callan serve on the committee under Chairman Paul Palizzolo. Also at the table Thursday were Business Manager Peter DeRoeve and Fincom members Walter Kaminski and Ann Yurek.

Following the town manager's recommendation, the school committee will likely be bringing a $12.9 million budget to town meeting. On Thursday, the superintendent added her recommendations to last year's $12.1 million budget to bring it up to the $12.9 million figure. Dr. O'Donnell proposed restoring the following positions:

- An art and music teacher at the elementary level.
- Four elementary teachers at the Woburn and Shawheen schools.
- Three industrial arts positions at the middle school level and at Wilmington High.

She also recommended completing the reading program the board recently adopted by purchasing new materials for grades five and six and augmenting the program in grades three and four at a cost of $73,000.

In defending her recommendations, Dr. O'Donnell said it was obvious from visiting in the system there was a need to bring back teachers at the elementary level because that level had been "decimated" in the past and because of the need to cover teachers' planning time. She said there was also a need to update textbooks and technologies and to totally revitalize and revamp the industrial arts program. She added industrial arts can support the science program at the middle school level.

DeRoeve said, though figures were not yet firm, so far there was a total of five personnel cuts and two positions which would not be filled. An industrial arts technology teacher was being cut at the middle school, a foreign language teacher was being cut at the high school, and a home economics teacher and two educational assistants would also be cut, said DeRoeve. The committee would not be filling the assistant principal's position at the Shawheen and a guidance position at the high school, he added.

There was also some discussion of changing the warrant article that would fund a mini van next year. The sub-committee agreed with Dr. O'Donnell that there was a greater need to purchase some technology equipment like Macintosh computers, solar calculators, and laser disk players. DeRoeve said, also, administrators would be trying to hold the line on the same number of buses next year.

Throughout the meeting, the superintendent shared her vision of ways to improve the system in the years to come. She said, after talks with principals and teachers, she had come away with "an incredible sense" of what bumping and ruffling has done to the system. She said there was an immediate need for stability in the system and added a way had to be found to eliminate the "destructive" bumping of teachers that has gone on before.

"That has a very, very detrimental effect... on any kind of staff building, morale building," the superintendent said.

Also a priority, said O'Donnell, is staff development. She suggested having a Staff Development Institute which would see teachers meeting for three or four days at the end of the school year to share ideas, work together on integrated lesson plans, and learn how to incorporate the new technology into the classroom. The superintendent added the in-service days currently scheduled for Wednesdays may be outmoded.

Another priority, said Dr. O'Donnell, is creating a curriculum for the 21st Century. To help do that, the school committee has to restore elementary cuts in the special needs, health, and library budgets. The system also needs a curriculum team to move ahead in at least the four major subject areas and has to find a way to centrally manage all five grants that have been awarded to the school system. A good manager would be able to better utilize the funds and, thus, would bring more grants to the system, the superintendent said. DeRoeve added one idea might be to establish a K-12 Curriculum Coordinator's position and do a reorganization to abolish department heads or other top positions.

Dr. O'Donnell suggested a review of class sizes at the high school.

"I find some of these numbers to be very low," she said. She said there are other options open to school administrators like a telecommunications course in Japanese or Chinese or working on the scheduling problem to keep the courses. She said administrators have to rethink the numbers and added, a class with 20 to 25 students is a fair size. Other ideas brought up by the superintendent were to explore a partnership with area businesses regarding adult education and to build an early childhood program that could sustain itself.

"What I'm trying to do is build a vision and goals. In order to get where we have to go, we have to have a plan," said Dr. O'Donnell. In what may or may not have been a reference to a five percent hike in teachers' salaries for next year, the superintendent added, however, "Fulfilling contractual obligations doesn't leave a lot of leeway."

"I like what I hear," said school committeeman Linda McMenimen at the end of the discussion. McMenimen was in the audience with fellow board member Peggy Kane and Jim Demos, candidate for the committee in April's election.

"You're going to bring us kicking and screaming into the 90's," laughed Jackson.

"You're going to take the politics out of the school system," said Kaminski in praise of the superintendent.

The sub-committee will present its recommended budget to the Wilmington School Committee March 10 for its approval before going to the finance committee on March 18.

Lester White: Helping people in need

by Arlene Surprenant
Lester White of Marcus Road loves to help other people. Whether it's wielding a hammer to restore or repair a home, cooking a meal for a group of youngsters, collecting food for needy families, or hauling bags of recyclables at the town's drop-off center, Les is using his retirement years to help his community.

About 15 years ago, Lester was very visible as a member of the Wilmington School Committee. He also worked as a mechanical engineer for Avco. After 33 years with the company, he retired in 1989 and has been busy with other interests ever since.

Les is one of the directors of Habitat for Humanity, a group of volunteers which is currently renovating a two-family home in Lowell. The home will go to new owners who will be able to buy it at a reduced mortgage with no interest. However, the successful applicants will have to put $600 worth of "sweat equity" into that home or another one like it to help pay back the chance at this bargain. A new family is expected to move in by May.

Lester also started Helping Hands through his church, the Wilmington United Methodist Church. Les explains, "we provide home maintenance and repairs for people who can't afford to hire contractors or can't afford to do the work themselves." Many of those who seek his group's help are elderly residents or widows on a limited income. Lester said the group does charge a minimum of $10 an hour for the work but, if a resident can't afford to pay, the Helping Hands don't charge a penny.

As chairman of the Board of Trustees of his church, Les is kept busy with a variety of jobs. "We are a working board. We don't just sit and make policy," he says. One of his more enjoyable tasks is cooking for a crowd, like the recent Mexican dinner he helped prepare for the Senior High Fellowship and taking part in preparing ham and bean suppers at the church.

Every month or so you might spot Les at the town's recycling center helping residents unload their cars and putting glass, plastic, or newspapers in the proper bin. If another volunteer calls in sick, Les can always be counted on to fill in. Lester White also volunteers to take donated food from his church to the Lowell Pantry every two weeks or to take Thanksgiving food donations from his church to The Commissary to be made up into holiday food baskets for the needy.

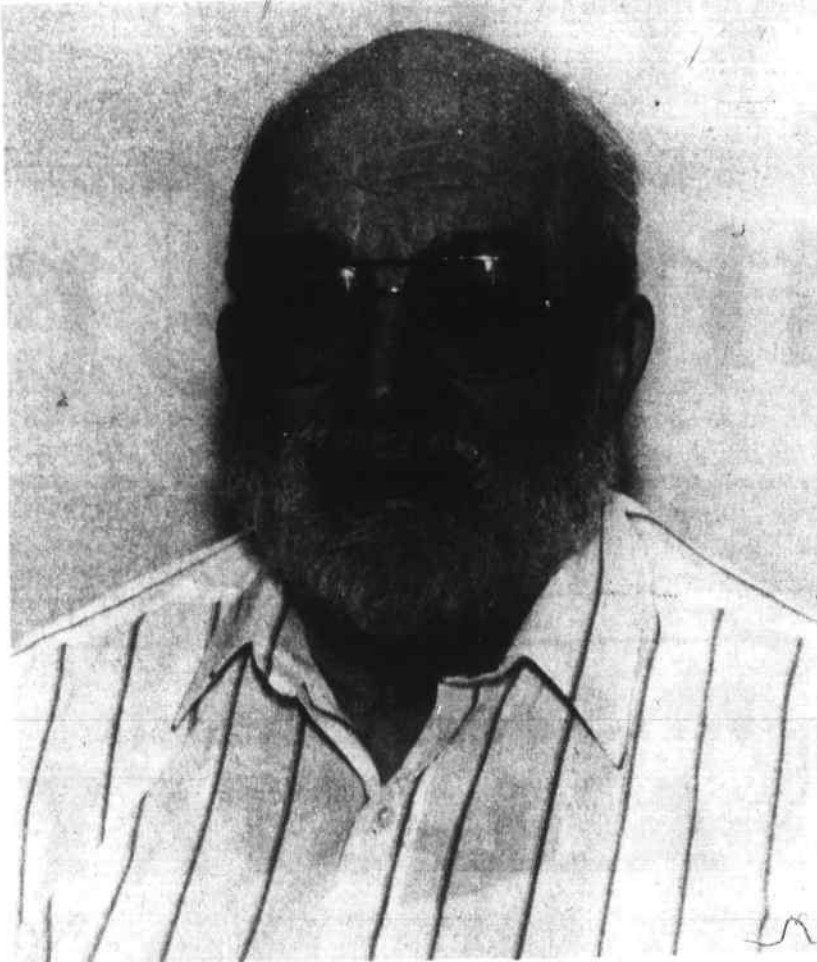

In his spare time, Les is an avid cross country skier and canoeist as well as an outdoor camper. When the Hot Rivets Camping Club was started at the Methodist Church 20 years ago, Les, his wife Barbara, and his 23 foot trailer found a second home. Last year they made a six week trip — "It was glorious" — to Colorado. Anytime the other campers have mechanical problems with their trailers, Les can always be counted on to help out. That helping attitude is also carried over to his part time job at Huntleys in Wilmington Plaza where he works one or two days a week.

Lester is a 1956 graduate of the University of Farmingdale in Long Island, New York. He continued his education through courses at other colleges like MIT, the University of New Hampshire, and Merrimack College. Barbara has worked in the cafeteria at the Woburn Street School for 25 years. Together they raised three daughters and look forward to being with their five grandchildren.

"Being a parent is wonderful; being a grandparent is twice as good," laughs this doting grandfather.

When will he take some time for himself? Maybe never, says Lester. "I get alot out of helping people. It's almost selfish on my part. I don't believe in slowing down. I intend to keep busy as long as the good Lord lets me."

Lester White

Strong field for selectmen's race

by Arlene Surprenant
With fourteen candidates in contention for eight seats on town boards, the April 17 election in Wilmington promises to be anything but dull.

Candidates returned their nomination papers to the Town Clerk by Monday's deadline and are now putting their campaigns into high gear.

The race to watch will be for two three year seats on the board of selectmen. Incumbent Dan Ballou is not seeking re-election to the board. Incumbent chairman Mark Haldane will be trying to hold onto his seat for another term against a strong field of challengers. They are Diane Allan, former chairman of the Permanent Building Committee; Tony Capuano, a previous candidate for the board who has been visible at various board meetings in the past few months; former selectman Michael McCoy; and Tom Siracusa, chairman of the Wilmington Housing Authority.

In the race for two three-year seats on the Wilmington School Committee are incumbent Peggy Kane; former committee member Dr. James Demos; Karen DiGiovine, former director of Wilmington Community Schools; and Robert Young, a former teacher at the West Intermediate School. Incumbent Phil Fenton will not be seeking re-election. In the contest for one two year seat on the same committee are incumbent Paul Palizzolo and political newcomer Madeleine Leger.

Running in uncontested races are Charles Fiore Jr, for one five year seat on the housing authority; incumbent Sidney Kaizer for one two year seat on the redevelopment authority; and incumbent Dennis Volpe for one five year seat on the redevelopment authority.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

GIVING MONEY FOR COLLEGE

There are two schools of thought on saving money to pay for a child's college education. One puts the money in the child's name, at least partially to reduce the tax bite on the income it produces. Two disadvantages: Junior can take the money and run at age 18; and the nest egg may count against his getting a college loan. The other school of thought keeps the money and the control of it in the parent's hands; given today's "kiddie tax" there's little tax issue.

If you do choose to give money to a youngster under 14, consider municipal bonds that produce taxfree income, growth stocks with little or no current income but appreciation potential or U.S. Savings Bonds on which taxes can be deferred. Over the age of 14, any income is at the child's lower rate.

Consider: if you need to sell appreciated stock to meet a tuition bill, transfer the security to the youngster instead (up to $10,000 per parent per child) and let him or her sell it for a lower tax bite.

Want to get more out of your money and give less to Uncle Sam? We'll show you how at Joyce K. Brisbois, C.P.A. 404 Main St., Suite #1 Wilmington, MA 01887 (508) 658-5034

TAX TIME CAN YOU AFFORD TO NOT TALK TO ME?

Do you know that:

1. You don't have to pay taxes on the interest from a Massachusetts Municipal Bond Fund.
2. All capital gains and interest income in annuities can be deferred for years until such time you decide to take them out?
3. If you or your spouse are not covered by a qualified retirement plan, you can still make a $2,000 tax deductible IRA contribution, even if you are covered, you may still qualify depending on your total income.
4. You can make non-deductible IRA contributions. Interest and gains can accumulate for years on a tax deferred basis. If you really don't like to pay taxes why not give me a call. I do not charge fees to discuss the various options available to you.

.....Opinion.....

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Make no mistake that the local election in Wilmington will be yet another confirmation that women have come of age as a political force in America. As Joe and Mary voter search for candidates not contaminated by the political process which has obviously failed us all, it's only logical that the best replacement is the group which has traditionally been excluded from that mercenary operation.

Unfortunately, this sentiment has not yet benefited other minorities to the same extent, depicting yet again the inbred racism in this country. But any bias held toward women is quickly dissipating, which is why local candidates in Wilmington will have to work hard if they are to defeat Diane Allan.

Mark Haldane, the only incumbent seeking re-election, should be a good bet for your money. If being non-controversial, amiable, accessible and hardworking still get you some mileage, Haldane will be returned for another three year stint. In a town rich to the brim with seething politicians who love to shout and offend, Haldane has been a refreshingly reasonable alternative to the weekly battles and infighting.

So this race comes down to the open seat, as is more often than not the case, and many are pointing to Allan as the heir apparent. This is due not only to her gender but her record of accomplishments as chief of the high school renovation project. People look at Allan and are reminded of that famous Bobby Kennedy quote, "Don't tell me what you're going to do, tell me what you've done." Allan can take that advice easily.

As for Mike McCoy, what else can you say but that he's Baaaaaaack! McCoy isn't exactly making a George Steinbrenner-like return, but he's returning nonetheless. But the argument made by his diehard supporters is that McCoy has paid his debt to society (and Bob Cain) to the tune of about $25,000 (thank you Judge Linda Giles) and that he's entitled to another shot.

It remains to be seen if McCoy is gearing up for a rematch with Haldane, who took McCoy's seat three years ago, or if the campaign strategy will be to focus on the open seat. Either way, McCoy's return is a blessing to the local economy given the fact that his campaign expenditures have always been of historic proportions for a local race.

Tom Siracusa is bent on running an aggressive campaign and his whisker loss last year makes him one of the more respected names in the race. It's likely the fight for the open seat will come down to Allan and Siracusa.

But for any of the pack to defeat Allan and the pro-woman candidate wave, one of them will have to be politically savvy enough to tap into the strongest emotion present in this community right now, and that's a general aversion to the overflow of politics and hostility toward business as usual in the local government. Voters have been overdosed with political fratricide, a near-weekly dose of personality politics and a bitter recall election which only served notice that there's something basically wrong with the town's leadership and how it collectively thinks.

Whichever candidate speaks to and empathizes with that sentiment will win broad support at the polls in April.

Briefly in Politics...

The Town Crier has learned that former public schools superintendent Bill Fay is collecting $108 a week in unemployment insurance, despite the fact that local officials consider him ineligible and that the town has been served a court order forbidding any direct or indirect payments to Fay.

Town Treasurer Joe Peters confirmed on Tuesday that Fay was receiving unemployment benefits but that legal counsel for the town has appealed the award to the Massachusetts Department of Employment and Training (D.E.T.) The town's objection centers around two issues; that Fay retired and received his pension, making him ineligible to also collect unemployment insurance, and that the town was recently served a restraining order requiring the town and its agents to withhold any direct or indirect payments to Fay.

It's believed the court order emanated from judgments sought against Fay by his creditors.

As the former employer, the town assumes the cost of the unemployment insurance. Peters did not know when D.E.T. would convene a hearing on the matter. Fay presently lives in Florida.

Tewksbury. Was it named for the community in Worcestershire, England?

The answer is No, at least not directly.

Explore the history of the family of the Hanoverian kings of England, and the Dummer family of Newbury, Massachusetts to get the answer.

In the beginning of the 18th Century Queen Anne ruled in Britain. The lady had no heirs. There was no Prince of Wales.

The nearest relative was George, of Hanover, Germany, a man who spoke no English. German was his native tongue. It was he who began the "Hanoverian" history of the British throne, a history which lasted until the Royal family was named the House of Windsor, during World War I.

George of Hanover became George I of England. His son, who was able to speak English, became the Prince of Wales, and later King George II.

Before he became King George II had made friends with many ladies of the country. When he traveled about Britain he used the name of Duke of Tewksbury.

There was no such title. Knowing individuals recognized the situation. The Duke stayed in more than a few places which were not his home.

In Newbury, in the Colony of Massachusetts Bay the Dummer family was politically minded. There were several men in that family.

The Puritans of Massachusetts were no longer in control of the colony. The important officials were being named in England.

William Dummer was the lieutenant governor of Massachusetts when George II assumed the crown. His brother Samuel owned a plantation on the island of Jamaica.

The Royal Governor was called to England to discuss problems. William Dummer became Governor of the Colony.

Samuel recognized an opportunity when he saw it. He sold his plantation and went back to Massachusetts. He brought with him half a dozen slaves, black people. The year was 1723.

Samuel bought 300 acres in the Land of Nod, near the present day Martins Brook in North Wilmington, land which had originally been part of Charlestown. Southerly was the Land of Goshen, part of Woburn.

Living nearby was the Harnden family. Two of the brothers had served as selectmen of Reading. John Harnden was a deacon of the Reading Church.

A dozen families lived in Goshen. The James Thompson (he spelled it Jeames) family lived near the present Wilmington Tewksbury line. He had served as Deacon in the Woburn church.

The families of Nod and of Goshen wanted to unite into one town, and have their own church. Walking to Reading or Woburn was too far, on a Sunday morning. Eventually they were united, in 1730. John Harnden and James Thompson were the deacons.

Samuel Dummer was, in 1730, the Sheriff of Middlesex County, thanks to his brother, the Governor. In the British Parliament one of the prominent members was named Wilmington.

Samuel saw to it that the new town was named Wilmington. That ensured that the Dummer family had a "voice" in Parliament.

In other ways too, Samuel was able to exert influence. His influence was felt in the construction of the church in the new town.

A gallery was constructed in the back of the church, for the boys, and for the slaves of Wilmington.

The original pulpit, made in those days, is still in the modern church. Behind that pulpit was a chair for the minister. Beside that chair was another, for Samuel Dummer, Sheriff of Middlesex County.

It was a little higher than was the seat for the pastor.

Four years later, in the land of Wamesit, another town was established. Wamesit took its name from the natives, Indians. There is a statue today in that town, in their honor, erected by sculptor Mico Kaufman.

Had the new town been named Wamesit no one would have objected.

But the Sheriff, and probably one or more brothers felt that the King should be honored.

So Wamesit was named Tewksbury, not for the community in Worcestershire, but for the name the King had been using, while he was Prince of Wales.

Building a coalition for education

by Arlene Surprenant

In just one short month, new school superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell has made her presence felt. She has met with town organizations like AIM and the Rotary Club as well as with school staff and town officials to share her vision of what the Wilmington School System could be. And she has listened and absorbed others' views to help her determine her next course of action.

To her credit, the new superintendent is not rushing into anything. And she has a way of steering clear of anything smacking of politics — a refreshing change for a system which has for too long been drawn into a web of political — and sometimes personal — intrigue.

The new superintendent is gracious and intelligent and self-assured. It is also obvious she is concerned about students and staff and the lack of a long-term plan to address the growing ills in the Wilmington School System. When a patient is sick, you usually administer medicine to heal him immediately. But a wise doctor will also look at the long term and advise ways to prevent a similar occurrence in the future.

Like the doctor, Geraldine O'Donnell is developing a five-year plan to address the needs of the local public schools. Such a plan will hopefully focus on curriculum and morale and utilize our resources to the full. If the superintendent has her way, the plan should help increase assessment scores, improve the reading program to make reading profitable and fun for all students, and upgrade our textbooks and help us take advantage of new technology. The plan should prepare students for the next century, whether they choose to go on to college or directly into the workforce. It should also encourage teachers to stretch both professionally and in the classroom and, in so doing, improve the educational program for all our children.

In order for the plan to work, Dr. O'Donnell must enlist the support of all factions both inside and outside the system. She is taking her first steps now to reach out to the community. We applaud Dr. O'Donnell's efforts and encourage the school committee and the public to continue to support her priorities.

Now it's your turn...

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

In all my years of serving the Town of Wilmington, which is over thirty (30) years, I have never written a letter to the Town Crier, although I admit I have been tempted.

The reason for this letter is to thank all of the wonderful people in this Town with whom I have worked with and for, and who have indicated their support in my campaign for a position on the Board of Selectmen.

Unfortunately, because of increased company commitments as a Community Relations Representative throughout New England, I feel that I would not be able to completely serve the people during a period when major decisions will have to be made.

Again, I would thank all who have indicated support for me and ask them to please support the candidacy of Diane Allan as an independent voice. I have known Diane Allan for many years and know she will do an excellent job for the Town of Wilmington.

Sincerely,
Bruce MacDonald

TEWKSBURY

The March 2, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Selectman Dick Trueba was unanimously directed to discuss with the Northern Middlesex Area Commission (NMAC) the possibility of Lowell and Tewksbury becoming a water district.

In the meantime, said Superintendent of the DPW, the town must get out water bills. Apparently, there was over $1 million due on June 30, if the bills were gotten out.

Marine Lance Corporal Robert Stephens of Pleasant Street returned from deployment Okinawa and was stationed at Camp Lejeune, NC.

In the Great Herald Coloring Contest, Myra Liwang of Tewksbury was one of the runners-up in the age nine to 14 category and won a Boston Herald t-shirt.

James Sullivan would seek a fourth term on the School Committee.

Beverly Luken walked away with the title of girls top sprinter at the MVC League Meet last week.

Members of the finance committee and selectmen toured the DPW garage to determine whether or not the department's request for $600,000 worth of new equipment was justified.

25 years ago

The March 7, 1968 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Lucci's Market, and Ski Haus on Lowell Street and Wilmington Builders' Supply Co. on Main Street, were broken into over the weekend.

The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority presented its plans for the redevelopment of Eames Street Industrial park to the Planning Board. Plans must be then approved by the selectmen. Pictured at the meeting were Bob Evans of the WRA, Bob Leahy, Rene LaRivee, Chairman Joseph Sottile and Raymond McNamara.

A total of 1819 voters went to the polls out of 6657 who were eligible; or 27.33 percent.

Scout Troop 56, following a Court of Honor in which they were promoted; Life Scouts John Daniell, David Marshall and Richard Gustafson and Star Scouts David Hooper and Stephen Daniell.

Atty. Simon Cutter and Police Sgt. Charles Ellsworth were tied in the "first to cast their ballot" race right to the finish line, but Atty Cutter was checked through first.

Eugene McKay of Burnap Street graduated from basic training at the Naval Training Station at Great Lakes.

Rita Chisholm was named to the dean's list for the third consecutive semester at the Chandler School for Women in Boston.

Lucci's Market offered large eggs at 39 cents a dozen; Colonial bacon, 69 cents a pound and cube, blade or sirloin steak, 98 cents a pound.

WILMINGTON

The March 2, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Mary Deslinger was a candidate for a seat on the School Committee as were incumbent John Brooks, and Anthony Accardi, Jr.

Walter Sowyrda of Davis Road was named deputy chief of the Fire Department and three new lieutenants included Joseph Lundegren, Edward Bradbury and Daniel Stewart. The deputy chief's position was opened by the promotion of Danny Wandell to chief.

Cpl. Timothy Sughroe of Chapman Avenue was promoted to that rank while serving at Camp Lejeune, NC.

Ellen Roberts of Lee Street was named Student of the Month at Shawsheen Tech.

Julie Stedman of Glen Road won a first place medal in the slalom event in the Junior Women's Tri-track class at the Northeast Regional Handicap Ski Championships at Mt. Sunapee, N.H. Fred Neilson and Doug Mackey, both also of Glen Road each won two third place medals in their respective classes.

Bob Young running for school board

Bob Young of Woburn Street, has announced his candidacy for one of the two three year term seats vacant during this year's election.

Bob is married with two sons. He is presently the assistant principal of East Middle School in Braintree. His wife Mary is employed at M.I.T. in Cambridge. Both sons attended the Woburn Street and North Intermediate Schools. Son Bob graduated from Shawsheen Tech and presently is a student at the Culinary Institute in Hyde Park, New York. Son Greg is a ninth grader at Wilmington High School.

Bob was a foreign language teacher from 1981-90 at both the North and West Intermediate Schools. During this time, he worked extremely hard providing his students with the best education possible. Foreign speakers, musical groups from Spain, foreign food, conversation and more conversation were part of his daily class. Many times, the Spanish class was the focus of dinner time conversation. His goal always was to make education fun, rewarding and challenging for all his students.

Bob has entered the race because he believes that it's time for a new face on the committee. It's time for a change. It's time for someone who will bring new ideas and make the students of Wilmington the number one agenda item during each meeting. Time for someone new who can unite the board and insist that the new superintendent stay focused on the education of all our children.

Having served on the Superintendent Search Committee to select Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, Bob has demonstrated his commitment to make education number one again in Wilmington. His participation on the school committee will ensure a successful and educationally sound administration that will benefit all of our students.

Robert Young

During his years in the classroom, Bob won the respect of his colleagues, students and parents. As a newly elected School Committee member, it is certain that he will win the same respect from the voters.

Please give Bob that opportunity and one of your two votes for School Committee on April 17.

Editor's note: The candidates' announcements on this page were prepared by the candidates. The statements are not presented as objective reporting by the Town Crier staff.

Peggy Kane seeks second term

Margaret "Peggy" Kane has announced her candidacy for a second term on the Wilmington School Committee. A teacher at Medford High School for the past 24 years, Peggy holds a BA in English from Emmanuel College, a masters' degree from Salem State College and 60 graduate credits in literacy, civic education, and women's issues from ULowell and Harvard University. She is currently a professional development grant recipient for the Medford Public Schools.

Peggy and her husband, Dennis, live at 40 Hanover St. with their three children. Stacey is a sophomore at Westfield State College and Katie and Andy are students at Wilmington High School. The Kanes are active members of the High School PAC.

Three years ago Peggy assured the voters of Wilmington that she possessed a commitment to a vision of excellence for our students and a desire to work cooperatively to lead Wilmington's school system into the 21st century. Her record proves that she consistently "does her homework," and achieves results as she represents our town with integrity and dedication.

A vision takes time to implement, Peggy has given that time. She served over two years on the Curriculum Committee. Peggy's efforts to strive for curricular excellence continued with her introduction of Educator's Showcase at School Committee meetings to publicize more clearly the creative and successful programs being developed by staff.

Peggy also served on the sub-committee that resulted in a smoke-free environment for all school buildings. This committee worked cooperatively with the Board of Health and members of the high school faculty and student body.

This fall Peggy Kane served on the Superintendent Search Sub-

Peggy Kane

Committee which lead to the hiring of Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, whose background reflects experience in all the areas needed to expand the avenues of success available to the children of Wilmington. Most recently she chaired the 16 member Space Needs Sub-Committee, which included representatives from town government, parents and members of the administrative and teaching staffs.

Wilmington Public Schools continues to face serious issues. Lack of staff and program stability due to contractual obligations, a decline in Mass Assessment scores, a growing space problem at the elementary level, the lack of sufficient funds for updating textbooks, and the formulation of both short and long term goals for the Wilmington Public Schools. These issues define the challenge of the next three years.

"Today I stand on my record of achievement, which has grown out of my commitment to educational goals. I promise to continue to give the time necessary to achieve our common goals. In concert with the leadership of Superintendent O'Donnell and fellow members of the School Committee, through staff development, through an aggressive pursuit of grant funding, through continued collaboration with town officials, community organizations and businesses, the Wilmington Public Schools will lead the way into the 21st century."

As you cast your ballot on April 17, show your support for our community by casting your vote for Margaret "Peggy" Kane. Kane is proven able!

Task force begins talks on Rt. 38

by Arlene Surprenant
In the second meeting with their consultants from David Dixon/Goody Clancy on Monday, members of the town's Strategic Planning Task Force discussed existing conditions along the Rt.38 corridor and an analysis presented to them by the consulting firm.

The firm was hired with funds from a $20,000 Strategic Planning Grant and a matching $10,000 transfer of funds from the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority. Between now and the end of June, the consultants will be looking at ways to improve the Rte. 38 corridor and best utilize space and vacant buildings in the area. The consultants will also be meeting on an on-going basis with the task force, made up of town officials from various boards and departments as well as members from the business community and the state, and with residents in a series of four public meetings.

According to Planning/Conservation Director Lynn Duncan, the task force was able to get a sense of the firm's vision and look at various goals and objectives at this week's meeting. She said members discussed how pedestrian-oriented the land bordering Main Street should be and felt people should be able to walk more conveniently in the area. Members also reviewed parking and the development pattern, said Duncan, and referred to the high percentage of vacant space in the vicinity. According to Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull, who also serves on the task force, the consultants discussed various models that might work in Wilmington. One was the contiguous storefronts in Lexington with parking behind the buildings and the emphasis on the pedestrian.

Two surprises cropped up during the meeting, said Duncan. One was the "high percentage" of land that was inconsistent with current zoning along the corridor. The other was the fact that Wilmington is still undergoing a transition when one would expect it to be beyond that stage.

The next meeting of the task force will be on March 18. At that meeting, members will continue the discussion on their consultants' findings.

Both Duncan and Hull encouraged interested residents to come to the first of four public meetings on March 22. That meeting will be held in conjunction with the selectmen's meeting at 6:30 p.m.

By the end of June when the grant program concludes, consultants will have made their recommendations, drawn up a plan of action in conjunction with the task force, and developed a site specific model for the Main Street area, said Duncan. The town will have to come up with the funds to put the plan and model into effect. The redevelopment authority is currently working on roadway improvements from Middlesex Avenue to the Tewksbury line. Town officials hope to incorporate the two projects as much as possible.

U Lowell engineering students design diesel exhaust system

by Arlene Surprenant
The design of a diesel exhaust system to vent dangerous fumes out of the vehicle bay at the Wilmington Fire Station was recognized at last week's board of selectmen's meeting. The design was done at no cost to the town by undergraduate engineering students John Dembrowsky and Patrick Murphy at The University of Massachusetts at Lowell. According to Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull, the system consists of an exhaust fan and a series of air ducts and hoses which connect to the exhaust pipe of each fire truck as well as the ceiling and serve as a vacuum to suck the exhaust out of the building. Murphy explained the system is similar to standard systems now being used but it differs in the connection and disconnection to emergency vehicles.

"We were really excited about this project when we took it on," Murphy said, adding, "it will accomplish our goal."

Fire Chief Dan Stewart said the idea of an exhaust system evolved from the Safety Committee, which was concerned about the long term health of firefighters who were so close to the diesel fumes in the station. Diesel is a known carcinogen, the deputy said, adding that 20 years ago the department had no diesel apparatus.

Because the initial cost to install a system is $60,000 and there were budget limitations, Stewart said he had to pursue another alternative. The students have worked on the design for the last year. Stewart said the system had to be moveable in order to relocate it whenever a new fire station is built.

Stewart and selectmen praised the students, calling their design a "tremendous asset" to Wilmington. "When we can receive a benefit such as this... this is a tremendous benefit to our community," said selectmen Chairman Mark Haldane as he read aloud a letter of commendation from his board. Hull said the issue now is when funds will be available to install the exhaust system. He said no money had been set aside for this in the FY 1994 budget. Stewart noted the system can be installed in two phases.

Selectman Gerry Duggan, a former Wilmington firefighter, said "I have experienced the fumes in all parts of the fire station." He urged the town manager to at least fund the first phase, which he said would cost around $7,000.

Boomers opens every day at noon, and closes Sun. - Thurs. at 1am, and Fri. & Sat. at 2am. Tournaments are scheduled four nights a week at 8pm: Monday - Class "D" 9-Ball, Race to 7
Tuesday - Class "C" 9-Ball, Race to 7
Wednesday - Class "E" 9-Ball
Thursday - Class "D" 9-Ball, Race to 7

Open table time is by the hour - $8 for two players, $12 for four. They don't take reservations, but do run a waiting list on busy nights. If you should have to wait, play some video games, visit the pro shop, or stop by the snack bar. They're even an on-line Mass. Lottery Agent. "We used to notice that our customers were leaving at 7:30 to go buy their lottery tickets," says Gary... not any more.

Space needs solution on hold

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington School Supt. Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell asked the school committee on Wednesday for a little more time to look into plans to restructure the system to deal with a lack of space in some schools. She said, while she would recommend moving forward with the restructuring, she needed more time to analyze the cost of proposed options and to meet with various town officials.

A subcommittee of teachers, students, parents, and town and school officials worked under Chairman Peggy Kane since September to try to come up with suitable options to meet the system's needs. Those options were presented to the public and the full school committee in several public meetings. One of the more popular options was to reclaim the Boutwell School and get it in good condition by 1994 to house elementary students.

The superintendent said, while trying to narrow it down to the best option, she focused on the subcommittee's goal to make "the most effective utilization of instructional space available." She added she looked at three considerations: that the most critical need in the near future will be at the Shawsheen School; that the high school will continue to have space available over the next several years; and, as long as the school department owned the Boutwell School, the state would consider no other funding options.

Kane urged the committee to go along with the superintendent saying, "we wouldn't want to rush it at this point." Brad Jackson, too, said it was important to give Dr. O'Donnell time to see how the options will affect the following years' budgets. He did ask, however, that parents be given enough notice if their children are going to be affected next year.

The board voted unanimously to grant Dr. O'Donnell's request.

Joyce's students plan April 29 show

by Arlene Surprenant
For the second year in a row, students in Matthew Joyce's Advanced Placement World Lit Class will be taking to the stage to share readings from their favorite authors, poets, and playwrights. The 25 Wilmington High students will perform excerpts from various works of literature in a one night experience entitled: Life and Language: the Light and the Dark.

For Joyce and his students, this will be an exercise in cooperative learning. What makes it so special is the preparation going into the program and the excitement that has already been generated as students chose their pieces and got together to form the Advanced Placement Enterprise Co.

The students will be scripting the entire production, providing their own costumes, coming up with and printing their own program, and selling tickets to the performance. Rehearsals will be ongoing between now and the actual performance, April 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Barrows Auditorium.

Joyce told members of the school committee on Wednesday last year's performance got "rave reviews."

"It will be a tough act to follow," he said, adding that it is important that everyone in the community "assume ownership" in the ambitious project.

Tickets will sell for four dollars apiece. Any profits will go toward three areas: a $250 scholarship for a deserving member of the Senior Class, the purchase of a chair for the auditorium, and the rest to the Senior Class.

Joyce concluded that his would-be performers are "magnificent thespians."

School Supt. Geraldine O'Donnell praised the effort at cooperative learning and said she was impressed with the decision to do such a show at the high school level.

"The reputation for this show has already preceded it," she said.

WCTV to help local candidates

The Wilmington Community Television Board of Directors has been discussing for the past year the concept of distributing a packet to all candidates running for political offices in the Town of Wilmington. Board members' ideas were very diverse and consequently, the packet never came to fruition.

Recognizing the television medium has become an important aspect of the political process, we would like to make you aware of your options concerning use of your local cable access station.

As a political candidate, the options available to you are:

A. Membership in WCTV — For $10 annual fee, you can become a non-equipment approved member, allowing you to utilize the facilities as a producer. This provides you with the availability of volunteer equipment approved members to assist you in producing a program.

B. Candidates may produce their own program without the use of WCTV facilities and submit it as an independent producer.

C. For this election, an independent producer has agreed to tape candidates on March 15 and 16 from 7 to 10 p.m. This production will allow each candidate to briefly present their position to the public for a maximum of five minutes. If you are interested in participating in this forum, please contact WCTV at 657-4066 for more information.

We would like to emphasize that WCTV is an independent non-profit corporation dedicated to providing public access television for the Wilmington community. The corporation governed by its bylaws must remain politically unbiased. Independent producers within the corporation may produce any program as long as it does not violate WCTV policies.

Ken Blowers honored as Eagle Scout

by Arlene Surprenant
With family and friends around him, Wilmington resident Kenneth Blowers was honored Saturday for attaining the rank of Eagle Scout. The Eagle Court of Honor was held Saturday afternoon at the Wilmington Congregational Church.

Ken is 18 and a freshman enrolled in the liberal arts program at the University of Lowell. He started in the scouting program in 1984 when he joined Troop 56 at the Congregational Church, said his mom Dee. Both Dee and her husband Bill were leaders during their son's scouting days.

To reach the rank of Eagle Scout, Ken had to go through the advancement program, moving up from Scout and Tenderfoot to Life and Eagle Scout. Along the way he worked to earn merit badges for his accomplishments. To earn the most prestigious rank, that of Eagle Scout, the boys must work on a special project. Ken's project was approved by the Conservation Commission in 1991. It involved clearing out debris on the town's conservation land to make trails more accessible to the public. Ken also planned and built new footbridges. Ken put in a total of 147 manhours to complete the project, said his proud mom.

Ken represented his troop at a recent Boy Scout conference in Indiana, meeting with other scouts all over the country, and volunteered summers at the Boy Scout camp in New Hampshire. Ken works for the community at the local cable TV station, WCTV.

At Saturday's Eagle Court of Honor, Ken delivered a speech based on Robert Frost's famous poem, "The Road Not Taken." In recognition of his accomplishment, Ken has received letters of commendation from state and federal legislators.

On hand at the Eagle Court of Honor was Congressman Peter Torkildsen and State Rep. Jim Miceli.

"I feel very proud of him. He's really earned this. Ken worked hard and gave up a lot to reach this point," said Dee.

DPW managing well with 'little money'

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington's DPW (Dept. of Public Works) budget of $3.8 million for fiscal 1994 will see little change from that in the past year. According to Town Manager Michael Caira, DPW Supt. Bob Palmer is managing well with "very little money."

Palmer was before the finance committee Tuesday to review and answer questions about his next year's budget.

Palmer said he depends on Chapter 90 roadway funds to keep the town's roads, like Aldrich Road and Glen Road, in good condition. He said he expects those funds to be available for the next four to five years after which he would have to use construction funds to pave streets like Woburn Street and High Street to the elementary school. Palmer said, too, that he has been getting requests for sidewalks and he feels the Church Street sidewalk needs to be overhauled.

Palmer's budget covers several smaller departments like engineering, highways, and cemetery. In answer to one question, Palmer said there would be enough room in the new section of the Wildwood Cemetery for the next 12 to 15 years. He said it costs $250 to purchase a grave.

When fincom members questioned if the DPW was reimbursed by the water department for manhours put in by Palmer's men, Caira replied the water department is part of town government and should not be considered a separate entity. Fincom Chairman Tom Casey said he asked the question because no other department generates the same funds as the water department and he thought he could find some extra money for equipment or vehicles.

"Where do you draw the line?" asked Walter Kaminski, as he sided with the town manager.

Palmer explained, with water department employees now under his control, he can better utilize his labor force to full capacity.

In discussing trash and the town's recycling effort, Caira noted the increase in that budget was due primarily to an increase in tipping fees. Casey questioned whether the recycling effort might be raising costs because of the lack of tonnage at the trash facility. Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull said the town has to make sure the actual tonnage figure is near the guaranteed annual figure. He added, as of April, the state is requiring that towns take such items as white goods and glass out of the waste stream.

Phil Spelman drew a laugh with what some considered to be the question of the night.

"Can you live with this budget?" he asked.

"I'm gonna have to," replied Palmer.

Library, senior citizens' budgets under review

by Arlene Surprenant
The town's public library budget follows the "status quo" with just a "modest" increase in part time salaries, said Library Director Philip Meriam on Tuesday. Meriam and the board of trustees was on hand to review their FY 1994 budget with the Wilmington Finance Committee.

One piece of good news, said Meriam, is a decrease in contractual services due to a drop in the annual cost of belonging to the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium. Previously, the town paid $20,835. That has dropped to $17,877 because of a decline in some technology costs, said the director. Membership in the Consortium helps the library overcome the limitations of its book budget, added Meriam.

The director said he expects to get $14,000 through a state grant which will be added to the book budget July 1. That would bring the total up to $51,000, he said. One third of the grant would go to the children's section and the rest would go to the adult department.

Meriam praised his staff for doing "a remarkably good job under the circumstances we're all under." He said there will be no expansion of personnel next year and two full time vacancies would remain unfilled at this time. In answer to a question on the library's security system, Meriam noted it was an old system that need to be updated but it was "doing its job."

Senior Coordinator Edie Cunningham went over the senior citizen budget in detail as many seniors looked on. She told fincom members the Buzzell Senior Center services about 1,098 "unduplicated" seniors a year and she gets about 7,000 calls a year from various agencies who interact with seniors as well as seniors themselves who need help.

"I think we are a productive department. I think we're doing a pretty good job taking care of the elderly in the town. (But) It's getting more difficult every day," said the coordinator.

Cunningham noted incidents of elderly abuse are rising possibly because so many elders are forced to move in with their children. She added that she is seeing more cases involving cancer patients who need a ride to hospitals for radiation treatment. Cunningham explained she has an aide and she wrote a $4,060 grant for an outreach worker who helps with meals going to homebound seniors. Eighty to eighty-five meals a day are sent out to shut-ins, said the coordinator.

Cunningham praised her liaison to Minuteman Home Care as well as respite care driver Margaret Keady for her personal touch and long hours as she drives the elderly to appointments. She said the day care provided by Minuteman is "excellent" and helps keep the elderly out of nursing homes. Others, though, said because Minuteman is servicing 16 areas, workers are stretched thin and don't give the same kind of service or personal attention to Wilmington's seniors as Keady does.

Fincom Chairman Tom Casey paid tribute to Cunningham's ability to manage the budget and all the services provided to Wilmington's elderly.

"To say that I'm impressed is understating it," he said.

When one senior said she wanted to be treated like every other department in town, Walter Kaminski pointed out "you're enjoying a good life budget-wise" and noted there was less of a cut in the seniors' budget than in other department budgets.

Wilmington school news

Request

Our school is cable ready. We have new monitors and vcrs. Our teachers have been trained to use "Cable in the Classroom." What we need now are video tapes to record educational programming. We are asking families to donate one good quality VHS video tape (BASF, Sony, Maxell, Scotch) T120 to the school library.

Kindergarten/grade one registration

March 1 through the 5th, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Shawshen, Woburn Street and Wildwood Schools.

A-1 Kindergarten news

The children in Mrs. Murphy's class are welcoming in the month of March with lions and lambs made by the children and are on display in the corridor by the A-1 classroom. They also decorated delicious "lion" cupcakes. Special thanks to Mrs. Martell for helping decorate the cupcakes.

A-7 Kindergarten news

The children in Mrs. Graham's class have begun learning about our bodies and how we grow. The children are making special folders with information and drawings about the way we breathe and how our bones are connected. Soon the children will be guessing which baby pictures match the "today" photographs we have brought in.

Congratulations

Each year children in Mrs. Bakke's social studies class have a little contest in memorizing all the presidents. Can you name them all? Well, the following children from room C-27 and C-29 showed they have quite a memory: Eric Farrell, Andrew Coyne, Sean Cannon, Colleen Cahill, David Graves, Kerry Martin, Danny Alosco, Kendal O'Dea, Marlena Spurr and Rebecca Lord.

Traveling authors

You may or may not be aware of this but we have a lot of upper grade children working with younger children each and everyday. The older children read to the younger ones on some occasions, help them with math or science and sometimes they are there to just listen. Well, the first graders in Mrs. Foresteire's room were given a special treat by Ms. Girouard's fifth graders last Wednesday. The fifth graders wrote original "Tall Tales" and read them to the first graders...everyone had a great time.

Project Charlie

The students in Grade one are discussing and completing "Things That Make Me Special" activity sheet. The Grade 2 students are sharing the "Warm Fuzzy Story" and "Basket of Compliments" activity sheet. In the weeks to come the children will be working on a "Class Strengths" collage. Helping your child become a super reader

1. Don't force your child to read a particular book. Let him/her choose books of interest.
2. Schedule a time each day for reading for pleasure.
3. Read yourself. Your child will appreciate the value of reading if he/she sees you taking time to read.
4. Encourage your child to read to you. Remember, do not interrupt your child while he/she is reading.
5. Give your child the opportunity to buy or check out books.
6. Read to your child. Children of all ages like to be read to.
7. If your child has a reading problem, work with your child's teacher to see what steps should be taken to solve the problem.

8. Encourage an interest in many different types of books.

Reading should be a fun activity in your home!

West Intermediate School

Friday, February 26, Dr. Evelyn Bailey, veterinarian at the Silver Lake Veterinary Hospital servicing Wilmington, was the second guest speaker in a series on Careers given for the girls at the West Intermediate School by guidance counselor Ms. Barbara Kolodner. A film was shown to sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls entitled "Today's Veterinarian," after which Dr. Bailey discussed her educational background and motivation for becoming a veterinarian.

Dr. Bailey has been practicing here for a year and a half. Other related job alternatives in the field of animal medicine were acknowledged. Pamphlets on these topics were distributed to interested students and questions were answered by Dr. Bailey.

The objectives of these career lectures is to broaden the horizons of our female students - to motivate and encourage them through utilizing our own Wilmington female work force. Dr. Bailey volunteered her time and encouraged students to call her at work with questions. The third lecture will focus on the field of education.

Wilmington Snow account still in black

by Arlene Surprenant

The snow and ice account in Wilmington's Department of Public Works budget is still in the black — barely — after the town was hit with almost as much snow as in 1983.

"Providing we don't get more than a two to three inch storm (in March) we'll be all right. (But) It is close," DPW Supt. Bob Palmer told members of the finance committee Tuesday night.

Palmer said the town had been hit with 55.75 inches of snow in 1983. This year, 55.50 inches of snow has fallen so far. He added that Sunday is the most expensive day to have snow because the town is then forced to pay doubletime to its employees for clearing the roads.

The FY 93 budget for snow and ice removal totals $296,625, including $90,045 for sand and salt, $6300 for tools and equipment, $17,500 for miscellaneous contractual services, $71,097 for contractual snow plowing, and $111,683 for personnel.

In many years, the snow and ice account has not been exhausted, in which case, a later town meeting transferred the money into other accounts.

Guess who's 21 Today!

Kris showed promise at an early age, but she's strayed from the family tradition of gathering news. Now she is more interested in watching the stuff newspapers are made of — trees. (She's a junior at U.V.M. studying forestry. — watch for her by-line this summer.)

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

WHY ENDOWMENT INSURANCE?

QUESTION: What is an endowment policy and where would it be used?

ANSWER: An endowment policy places the principal emphasis on building up savings while at the same time providing life insurance protection during the same period. The face amount is paid whether you live or die.

For example, a 20-year endowment policy for $10,000 would guarantee you payment of that amount at the end of 20 years. If you should die before the 20th year, the full amount would be paid to the beneficiary.

The only choice is whether you want the proceeds paid in a lump sum or monthly payments.

ENDOWMENT INSURANCE places the emphasis on savings while also providing insurance.

Cable co. up for public service award

Continental Cablevision is a finalist for the cable TV industry's most prestigious national public service award for its "Stone Zoo Rediscovery" campaign.

Continental's zoo support and wildlife-conservation effort is one of four projects competing for a Beacon award for the best ongoing community relations campaign by a mid-sized cable system nationwide.

More than 400 cable systems, networks and state associations submitted public affairs program entries in the Beacon Award competition, which is sponsored by the Cable Television Public Affairs Association.

The winners will be honored during an April 1 ceremony in Boston at the national association's annual conference.

According to Michael Leone, Continental's area operations manager, "This is an unprecedented honor for our cable system, and we are proud to share it with the many, many cable customers, local officials and educators who joined in helping to save the nearly century old Stone Zoo from extinction and bringing the wildlife and environmental preservation message to a new generation."

The centerpiece of the campaign was "Stone Zoo Re-Discovery Day," a full day of family entertainment and educational activities cosponsored by The Discovery Channel at the zoo Sept. 20, 1992. Some 6,000 supporters, one of the zoo's largest crowds, turned out for the event.

Emmy award winning actress

Loretta Switt, host of Discovery's "Those Incredible Animals" series, was a special guest at the zoo. She also taped a Continental public service announcement urging support for Massachusetts' zoos, which is being offered to cable systems and broadcast stations across the state.

For the second straight year, Continental also raised more than $12,000 through a special cable installation offer to revamp and bring new animal exhibits to the zoo.

As part of "Stone Zoo Re-Discovery" Continental also:

Underwrote the cost of visits by the zoos' "Wildlife on Wheels" educational program to seven area schools; produced, with support from the Learning Channel, a teachers' curriculum guide for "ZooQuest" a six part educational TV series produced locally by Continental for third through sixth graders; created "Kids for Conservation," an educational competition among area schools to see which class could create the best cable TV message promoting wildlife preservation or conservation. The winning classes will receive prizes and have their messages aired on Continental's local channels.

"It would be great to win the Beacon Award," said Continental's Leone, "but the real reward has been seeing so many of our friends and neighbors join with us in supporting Stone Zoo, one of the area's most valuable and cherished resources."

Mixup

We had a mixup on the delivery of the low income surplus commodities from the Board of Nutrition last Friday. As a result we did not receive them until close to noon. It took some time for the volunteers to bag all the articles. We will continue the distribution throughout the week until all the food articles have been given out.

We know many who came early had to leave before the supply arrived. Many young and older residents through no fault of their own find themselves on low income. The majority due to loss of employment. Any person on welfare assistance qualifies automatically and one with an income of $10,215 or less for a household of one, $13,785 for a household of two; $17,355 a household of three; $20,925 a household of four; $24,495 a household of five; $28,065 household of six will qualify. It only takes a few minutes to pick up the bag of commodities.

Help with taxes

Any senior who can not make it to the center to get help filing income taxes due to a severe disability or illness, call the Senior Center at 658-2258 or 657-7595. We will see whether Joe or Mollie will be able to go to you.

If you want help filing your taxes at the center, we still have some openings for appointments the last two weeks of March. Call the center

Nutrition program

The Nutrition Program will not be held Tuesday. It will be the Tuesday, March 16 from 10 a.m. to noon. Our guest speaker will be nutritionist Julie Daley. She will speak on several topics such as reading labels correctly, how to prepare good nutritious means, etc. This is a free class. Try to attend even if you have never attended the classes before.

Mass cards

For many years the Council on Aging always had a supply of mass cards and enrollments from the Oblate Fathers in Tewksbury for the seniors on request. We have continued that program. Over the years we have made out a very large number of them for the seniors on the loss of a loved one. We send the money with the request to the Oblate Novitiate where the mass is said for the deceased person by the priest. We have had requests by seniors now for mass cards for the sick, a birthday gift, and a remembrance gift for a friend. For many seniors who send or receive them, the mass cards mean a little more than a regular card.

The Oblate Fathers charge $2 for the card and mass. The money is used by them to support their mission work throughout the world.

Save on health insurance

The governor has announced two initiatives that could save Mass elderly 35 million in health insurance payments by: a tax deduction and medigap assistance that would save elders with taxable income an average of $70 a year.

Low income elders and average of $160 dollars a year. The governor estimates $230,000 Mass. elders would be eligible. The way it would work is the elder taxpayer could deduct 50 percent of their health insurance on their tax form. He estimates 130,000 earn $8000 or less making them eligible for the $160. The medigap assistance program if passed will be administered by the executive office of Elder Affairs in Boston and would be retroactive to January 1, 1993.

Report by April 15

If you worked and received Social Security benefits in 1992 you will have until April 15 to report your earnings to the Social Security, if you earned over the annual limits.

The annual limits for 1992 are $7,440 if you are under 65; $10,200 65-69; over 70 there is no limit, you do not have to make a report. Failure to report your earnings by April 15 may result in being penalized up to one full months benefits and be required to repay any overpayment. You should be aware filing a Federal Income Tax return does not take the place of an annual report to the Social Security office.

During the week ending March 2, Wilmington police officers responded to 35 alarms, four reports of disorderly conduct, three domestic problems, made an arrest and three protective custody detentions.

Other departments were assisted on four occasions, five larcenies were investigated, three incidents made medical assistance necessary; four non-criminal complaints were logged and there were seven animal related problems.

Eight public services were performed, a restraining order was issued, nine traffic accidents were checked out and three traffic services were completed.

Arrest

Wednesday morning Officer Mike Begonis, while on traffic enforcement on Burlington Avenue stopped and arrested Phillip Sokolowski, 27 of Burlington Avenue after a computer check revealed Sokolowski's license had been suspended. He was taken directly to Woburn Court for arraignment.

Still investigating

Detectives are still investigating the homicide of three weeks ago off Ashwood Road, as well as the robbery of BayBank.

Anyone with information or possible leads is urged to call the Wilmington police detectives at 657-8082 or the main station at 658-5072.

Thanks, folks!

Police wish to thank all the residents and passersby who assisted in the reporting and apprehension of the burglary suspects two weeks ago. We believe that their apprehension has stopped the most recent spree of housebreaks in the Woburn Street/West Street areas.

We encourage residents to report all incidents of suspicious behavior. Cruisers are on the road 24 hours a day, and might be just around the corner from a suspicious person or incident.

Animal report

The Wilmington animal control officer is presently holding the following pet at the Central Animal Hospital in Stoneham:

Blaine Smith was great in net, shutting down Billerica's offense.

Great defensive work by Mike Comer, Mike Whitney, Danny Fogg and Stephen Brady held the Billerica team back.

Joe Delaney put one in the net 24 seconds into the third period assisted by Kenny Chin and Kevin Gillespie. In the final minute Billerica slipped one by, ending the shutout.

Division II North basketball

Lincoln-Sudbury, Danvers finish WHS seasons

Wilmington High School's gritty boys' varsity basketball squad finally ran up against a tourney team with too much firepower in game three of the Division II North foray as number four seeded Lincoln-Sudbury buried the number 20 seeded Wildcats, 68-39.

The victory, achieved on L-S' homecourt, ended Wilmington's run of impressive tourney wins over Wakefield and Concord-Carlisle.

The Wildcats trailed by 17 at the half and could never really make a dent in the Lincoln-Sudbury lead.

Senior center Greg Cardello led the way in the WHS finale with 21 points, while senior Dave Oatis chipped in with seven as the Wildcats finished their season at 10-13 under coach Jim McCune.

Wilmington High School's varsity basketball girls fell victim to a red-hot shooter in game one of the Division II North Tourney last week, as Danver's star Brandi Hodson fired in 33 points to lead her team to a 65-54 victory.

Coach Sue Powers' Wildcats stunned favored Danvers with a 28-25 halftime lead before Hodson took control of the game.

Junior Adrienne Fay led the way for Wilmington with 18 points, while the sophomore tandem of Jamie Forgett and Jacqui Holloway canned 12 points apiece for a young team that finished its season at 7-11 with plenty of promise for next year.

Squirt C highlights

Wilmington's Squirt Cs faced off with Andover III at the Medford MDC Rink and increased their record to 10-0-0.

The Squirts came in frozen in the first period and Andover capitalized and took the lead after one period.

The Squirt Cs started to slowly thaw out in the second period, as Brian Considine and John O'Neil connected with Erik Gustafson for their first goal. Minutes later Billy Hafner found C.J. Holmes open on the left wing and he popped it in the net to tie the score at two.

With 2:18 left in the period Robert Garrett took a long shot from the blue line and it slid right under the goaltender's pads for the third and game winning goal. But, it wasn't over.

Wilmington was on fire in the third period as they managed to score five more times, while goaltender Chris Rose was solid in net, holding Andover to a halt.

Eric Banda and Billy Hafner assisted on a goal by John O'Neil before Eric Banda assisted with John O'Neil on the fifth goal of the game by Erik Gustafson.

Dan Tocio got his first goal of the game from Dan Tello with 2:29 left. Just 19 seconds later it was Erik Gustafson going in for his third goal assisted by Brian Considine and John O'Neil.

The final goal came with 45 seconds left when Erik Gustafson sent a shot in which Dan Tocio found behind the net and stuffed into the corner.

Erik Gustafson played a solid game, picking up three goals and an assist, while John O'Neil helped the cause with his goal and three assists.

First loss for Squirt C's

Wilmington's Squirt C's dropped their first game of the season to Peabody III. The Squirt C's are no longer undefeated, but they still maintain the best record in their division.

After two periods of play the score was tied at 0-0. Wilmington and Peabody were both playing an outstanding game, with good forechecking, backchecking and passing. Peabody however, was producing more shots on net than was Wilmington.

Cambridge vs Wilmington Mite B's

On an ice cold Saturday morning, Wilmington took on a hot Cambridge team. Cambridge scored early in the first period to lead, 1-0.

Wilmington came back on an unassisted goal scored by Richie Palizzolo. Richie's goal came on a shorthanded attempt. Cambridge came right back, however to take the lead at 2-1.

The second period saw Cambridge scoring another goal to lead, 3-1. Wilmington's goaltender Paul Sferazza had plenty of work and turned away many shots. During the third period Cambridge scored once again. Cambridge finished the game with a 4-1 win.

Wilmington Mite B's vs South Shore

The Wildcats faced off against a tough South Shore team at Merrimack College. The Cats played an outstanding defensive first period. Chuckie DiMomenico's backchecking broke up a sure goal for South Shore. The first period ended 0-0.

Wilmington, pumped from a great first period, came out offensive minded. A breakaway by Ryan Thibodeau was stopped by the S/S goalie and the rebound was picked up by Chuckie and again the shot was turned away.

Wilmington's first goal was scored by Ryan Boudreau, assisted by Brian Aldrich. Great passing by DiMomenico and Rich Palizzolo was broken up by S/S. The Cats second goal came from DiMomenico assisted by Paul Sferazza, to tie the game at 2-2. By the close of the third, S/S had retaken the lead by a score of 3-2.

During the third period, Brent Holloway broke through the S/S defense and came in alone, but the puck got away and the goalie made the save.

Ryan Boudreau came up with the tying goal on a pass from Paul Sferazza. South Shore then turned on the jets to score to goals for the 5-3 win.

Two standouts

Wilmington High School junior John MacKinnon (20) and senior center Greg Cardello (23) helped their team to two tourney wins last week.

WHS' relay team breaks record

Last Sunday the Wilmington boys mile relay team of Tom Zaya, Tom Killilea, Tom Aprile and Dan Ballou surprised the capacity crowd at the All-State Track Meet held at Harvard University by winning the mile relay, beating powerhouse Brockton by half a second.

The time of 3:24.54 was a meet record. This extraordinary effort took almost five seconds off the team's previous best time. Brenden Rogers completed Wilmington's superb effort when he scored a personal best mile time of 4:39.78.

Mite A's capture Tewksbury tournament championship

Wilmington's Mite A's competed in the annual Tewksbury Mite Tournament during February school vacation and came away with the championship after an outstanding performance.

In game one, Wilmington squared off against Tewksbury in what proved to be a superb game. The Wildcats found themselves down by two goals after just a minute and a half of play.

Wilmington woke up after the second goal, as Anthony Tomasi set up Brian Velardo for the score with 7:57 remaining to play. Mike Montalto knotted the game at two apiece with just 19 seconds left in the period after the feed from Justin Brady.

Although allowing two goals early, Wilmington played well defensively in the period and was able to outshoot the opponents, 5-4.

The Wildcats took the lead for the first time at 3:38 when Jonathan Robarge slid Justin Brady's pass under the goaltender. Wilmington outshot Tewksbury 7-3 in the second period however.

Tewksbury picked up a power play two minutes into the third period but the penalty killing of Tomasi and Velardo denied them any scoring chances.

Montalto netted the game winner with two minutes left in the period, as he batted the Patrick Cushing pass out of the air. Wilmington ended the game with 14 shots on net to Tewksbury's 11.

The Wildcats now looked forward to Medford in game number two of the tournament.

In the opening minutes of game two, Scott Buck and Andrew Campbell came up big on defense to keep Medford off the board. The Wildcats struck first with a goal from Patrick Cushing at 3:42 after the setup by Derek Clayton and Mike Montalto.

The lead was shortlived as Medford scored a minute later, beating goaltender Jim McGonagle to tie the game at 1-1.

Wilmington picked up a powerplay at 6:17, but was unable to score with the man advantage. Medford had two powerplays in the period and outshot the locals, 7-4.

Medford really opened up the attack in the second period, outshooting the Wildcats, 11-6.

Jim McGonagle was superb in net, stopping all but one shot which gave Medford the 2-1 lead with 1:50 to go in the period. Medford was able to take a 3-1 lead with 4:19 to go in the final period.

Wilmington came back with a goal 32 seconds later when Casey Duggan buried the pass from Anthony Tomasi.

When time had expired, Wilmington would have to settle for the 3-2 loss after being outshot 23-13.

The Wildcats would have to come up with a win in game three against Burlington in order to reach the finals.

Both teams got off to a slow start in the first period, with most of the scoring chances coming in the second half of the period. Wilmington went on the powerplay with 6:44 to go in the period, but the line of Robarge, Collins and Loring couldn't penetrate the Burlington defense.

The locals got a break with 3:31 left when Patrick Cushing put home the pass from Justin Brady while shorthanded to give the Wildcats a 1-0 lead.

Anthony Tomasi had a good chance as he took a pass from Jonathan Robarge and hit the post with 2:02 left. Burlington also woke up late, as they were able to put one past Jim McGonagle with 1:09 to play in the opening period.

McGonagle came right back with a nice save on a partial breakaway in the closing seconds to keep the game tied going into the next period.

The game remained tied through the second period, with both teams having few scoring opportunities on the powerplay. The defense of Corcoran, Martinello, Campbell, Clayton and Buck helped keep Burlington from penetrating the Wilmington blueline.

With the game tied and being outshot 9-7 to this point, Wilmington needed to pick up the pace if they were going to play for the championship. Burlington scored while on the powerplay just 1:24 into the period to take the 2-1 lead.

The Wildcats had to respond, and did at 5:40 when Brian Velardo took the pass from Anthony Tomasi and put one in the top corner to tie the game at two apiece.

Velardo and Tomasi connected again with just 44 seconds left to play, and like the first, Velardo put his second goal of the game in the top corner to send Wilmington to the finals.

Wilmington and Medford would meet in the finals, with Medford undefeated and Wilmington's only loss coming against Medford two days earlier.

At the drop of the puck the action was fast paced, and both teams looked as though they came to play.

Medford jumped out in front at 3:39 of the first period, scoring on it's first shot of the game.

Wilmington's line of Jonathan Robarge, Jason Loring, and Brian Martinello went on the powerplay at 5:30, but was unable to put one behind Medford's goaltender.

Medford took over and outshot the Wildcats, 5-0 in the second half of the period.

Jim McGonagle was ready for the attack, and he closed the doors on Medford for the last six and a half minutes of the period to keep Wilmington in the game.

Wilmington played much better in the second period with defensemen Brian Corcoran, Derek Clayton, Scott Buck and Andrew Campbell, limiting Medford to six shots, with most of the shots coming from outside the slot.

The Wildcats also managed to kill a Medford powerplay at the end of the period. Wilmington began the third period with Mike Montalto, Pat Cushing, and Brian Velardo on the powerplay and putting the pressure on, but unable to score.

A minute later, Medford went on the powerplay with no luck as Cushing and Montalto did a good job penalty killing.

The Wildcats got the break they needed when Anthony Tomasi worked the puck up the boards to Casey Duggan, who sent Brian Velardo in for the tying goal with 3:57 left to play in the game. Wilmington was called for too many men on the ice with only 2:31 remaining in this battle.

Velardo and Tomasi killed the penalty and only allowed Medford in the zone for one shot on McGonagle. With the gametime at :03 showing on the clock, the Wildcats were called for tripping and again killed a penalty in a crucial situation.

Regulation ended with the game tied 1-1 and Medford looking very strong and outshooting Wilmington, 20-11. Medford was right on top of the locals in the opening minutes of overtime until they were called for hauling down Tomasi while he was breaking to the net.

It was 45 seconds later that Pat Cushing took the puck from behind the Medford net and slid the backhand under the goalie to give Wilmington the championship in a tough 2-1 victory.

Outdoors column

Bits and pieces along the trail

by Bill Conlon

Not much to work with this week, so please bear with me. I've got the Nearly-The-Equinox-But-Winter-Ain't-Dead-Yet-In-Between-The-Seasons-Brain-Scorched Blues.

Either that of I've sprouted a case of that Monster Flu now making the rounds, which means an ugly week ahead. Oh Joy.

So, let's go with bits and pieces.

We still have ice, lots of it, but the rules of ice safety need repeating at this late stage in the game. Winter is not over yet, not until the Vernal Equinox later this month, but it is time to pay strict attention to the ice if you plan any on-ice activities. By tradition in "normal" winters, the last ice fishing derby of the year is held on the first weekend in March at the very latest, and this year we have apparently safe ice, still.

Safe ice is a variable term. Safety is measured in how likely you are to keep from falling in, naturally, but late-season ice is not a strong as early ice. The crystal-clear "blue" ice of the early season is mostly gone, leaving behind bubble-filled "slush" ice, which isn't as strong.

Here are the recommended safe ice thicknesses. Clip and save this, because who knows what the future will bring?

All strengths are given for "blue" ice and a moving load. Double the thickness for slush ice. (This chart was developed in the Civil War for military uses, if you want a piece of miscellanea for your collection.)

2" is safe for one man on foot.

3" for a group in single file.

7.5" for a car with a gross weight of two tons.

8" holds a lightweight truck.

12" is OK for a 7-8 ton truck.

15" can carry ten tons or better.

Reduce strength by 15% for river blue ice.

And remember, there are springs and warm spots under the ice that you'll never know about until it's too late. Always, always, always be careful on the ice, even in the thick of winter.

As a rule of thumb, if the ice is as thick as your palm is wide, you can safely cross it.

Personally, I like two feet of ice, because I hate being scared.

Occasionally, as a member of the New England Outdoor Writers Association, I get books to review. In my desk drawer right now I've got "To Catch a Tuna" by Capt. Al Anderson, and "Fishable Wrecks & Rockpiles" by Tim Colemand and Charley Soares. The books run the gamut, but they're overall pretty good reading.

Last week, however, I received a different sort of publication. The premier edition of "Northern Adventures" arrived, and it is indeed a different breed.

Compiled by Bob Goldman, who delivered the tome while I was out of the office, the book is filled with discounts on all sorts of lodging, boat and plane excursions, skiing, bicycling, whitewater, and even hot air ballooning, in the upper three New England states of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. If you've ever bought one of those "Dining Out" sort of books, you've got the idea. Naturally, with book of this sort, you can make the price back in one or two uses.

The back page of the publication is a free plug for UNICEF, Goldman said this week. Hey, we're all in this world together.

The book retails for $9.95 from the publisher, but you can get one for a buck off with an eight-gallon fill-up at Village Center Sunoco in Tewksbury center.

Next up for the enthusiast? Spring Wild Turkey Season! Turkey will be legitimate game from May 3-8 and May 10-22, plus the fall hunt.

Send in the application card that is part of your hunting license, and do read your game law synopsis for the rest of the details.

In 1992, turkey gunners set a new state record for their harvest, with 1,010 birds taken, up from the 791 knocked down in 1990, the earlier record year. Keep in mind, there were no turkeys in Massachusetts as little as 20 years ago, and now they are being exported OUT of state to restock other areas.

And this year, Bub Manley out of Tewksbury PROMISES me he'll be filling his turkey tag. Oh, really? (He's made the same promise for so many years that I wonder if he ever gets into his camouflage at all.)

The state is gearing up for spring trout stocking, but this year it looks like they'll have to cut holes to pour in the trout! It's happened before!

Hopefully I'll have something just a bit more meaty to write about for next week. For some reason, I'm just brain-dead today. How odd.

Then again, if I've really got the flu that has floored half my family, and this one is brutal, I may have to skip the next column or two. It says right here, on line 38B, that I'm not allowed to get sick, but ...

This survivor runs to help others

This April Wilmington's John Engdahl will be running his first Boston Marathon. He sees the race not only as a physical challenge to himself, but as a challenge to others around him.

John is a very special marathon athlete-a survivor who has beaten down leukemia and hopes to use his effort in the upcoming race to fight the disease across America.

"In 1991 I was turning 50 years old, and I thought that as a way to mark the occasion, I would run the Boston Marathon," says Engdahl.

"I trained all winter and believed I was ready. In March I went in for a physical, and after a few different tests, was told on April 3 that I had leukemia."

"This was to start a much bigger and different marathon than I had expected. After a year of treatment under Dr. Vimo in Newton Wellesley Hospital and a bone marrow transplant by Dr. Miller at New England Medical Center, I'm now in remission, with no sign of leukemia."

John is currently averaging just over 13 miles per week as he builds his training schedule as the race nears. This will be his first marathon, but he has done some distance competition in preparation for the race, and has also kept in shape as a veteran standout for Stelio's over-35 softball team in Wilmington each summer.

"I am one of the lucky people who gained remission. I met a lot of friends who didn't (including a sister of mine who died at age four - I was 12 at the time)."

"At a Leukemia Society support group meeting in January of this year, I was told about the Leukemia Society's Team in Training, people who are going to run the Boston Marathon for contributions to the Leukemia Society to help us find a cure for this terrible disease."

"The goal of the Leukemia Society is to have each runner collect $750.00 in contributions. I would like to exceed that amount by as much as possible. The support I received while I was hospitalized was overwhelming to me. I hope I can give some help to others by running in the marathon this year."

John is looking for sponsors for his efforts in this race, with all donations made payable to The Leukemia Society of America.

The address to/mail all donations to is the The Leukemia Society of America, 180 Rustcraft Road, Dedham, MA.

Ruckus at the appeals board

Tempers flared after last week's meeting of the Tewksbury Board of Appeals, but no harm was done and no charges were filed.

A public hearing was held for Jim McGlinchey's request for variances on a house on Virginia Road, and the comments from the public grew heated at times.

Town employee Tom Casey, who is a friend of McGlinchey, became angered at one speaker's comments, and an argument ensued in the lobby outside the auditorium of town hall. A Tewksbury patrolman was sent to keep the peace, after a call from Selectman Tom Camara, who was in attendance.

Camara reportedly got involved in the argument, and Casey gave the selectman a shove, according to the patrolman.

Camara, according to the officer, was gracious about the incident and no charges were filed.

Syracuse chorus to perform at TMHS

The Syracuse University Singers will present a concert at Tewksbury Memorial High School Friday, March 5, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The concert, free and open to the public, is part of a three day visit by the choral group to the Greater Boston area.

The University Singers is Syracuse University's top select choral ensemble. Its 24 members are chosen after intensive auditions and represent many different schools and colleges on the campus. They have received critical acclaim for their performances throughout New York State and the Northeast. In December they were selected to appear at the New York State Music Educators Conference.

Kristen Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips of Tewksbury and a graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School is a member of the soprano section of the choir. She will be featured as a soloist in one selection. Other area members of the University Singers include Allison Rainville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rainville of No. Andover, and Mark Auger, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Auger of Sturbridge.

The program presented by the University Singers will include motets, madrigals, folk songs and the highly entertaining "Liebeslied Polkas" of P.D.Q. Bach. The conductor of the group is G. Burton Harbison, Director of Choral Activities at Syracuse University.

"When I got to the lifeboatsnobody was there" Karl Klausen

By KEN MAGUIRE

He has a respect for the ocean that few others know. He grew up by the shores of the Atlantic Ocean, lived on it as a young man, made a living off it during his career, and almost died in it as a soldier.

Today, Karl Klausen, a Norwegian native and longtime Burlington resident who now makes his home in Winchester, is retired and is glad to have his days on the ocean behind him.

As Klausen prepares to journey back to his native Norway this summer, for a cruise along the coast with his wife Thelma, he recently recalled his experiences on the ocean...

It was 1942 and World War Two was raging, when Klausen was a 22-year-old in the Norwegian Navy, serving aboard a small trading vessel in the North Atlantic.

Norway had no real fighting force on the seas, so most of the Navy's duties consisted of trading. The money made on the business deals would go directly back to the country and the war effort.

In January of '42, Klausen and his shipmates were leaving Argentina, New Foundland, to travel to another part of the country. They were to pick up goods to be delivered to the United States. The vessel "William Hansen" left Argentina on Jan. 21, but would never make it back to shore.

It was midnight and Klausen had been asleep in his cabin for two hours when the torpedo exploded into the stern of the ship, covering everything and everyone with oil and shooting flames down hallways and into cabins. A German U-boat had found its mark and the "William Hansen" was in trouble.

Klausen bolted from his cabin and headed for the bridge. His captain informed him of the emergency and said there was little hope of saving the ship. He told Klausen to run back and put on warm clothes, for the freezing cold water awaited. But instead, he followed his instinct.

"My first thought was to get to the lifeboats," Klausen said, in his distinct accent. "I couldn't say for sure why I did it, maybe it was good training. I had to run through the flames, down the ladder, to the boat deck. When I got to the lifeboat I was so surprised that nobody was there."

Alone, Klausen managed to free one of only two lifeboats tied onto each side of the ship. As the lifeboat fell into the ocean, the ship began to sink, bow first, bringing the bridge and the people on it underwater.

Had he returned to his cabin to change or put on a life preserver, Klausen would have been one of the crew that went under. Instead, he was in his pajamas about to dive into the Atlantic Ocean. But he was alive and lucky to be that way.

"I slid forward on the boat deck and got hit with all kinds of debris," Klausen recalled. "I crawled back to the aft and off the boat deck, that was the only thing above the water. When the ship nosed down, the (officer) who was with me fell overboard, so I was alone."

Once making it into the lifeboat, Klausen managed to pull seven of his shipmates aboard. He frantically searched for his 12 other crew mates, but to no avail. Three of the seven he pulled aboard didn't last long. Injuries and deathly cold temperatures cost them their lives.

Klausen's first line of business was to put some distance between the sinking "William

ANTHONY MANCONI

I remember when Miss Sullivan, my eighth grade teacher, retired after 40 years of stellar service. Her many friends were giving her a retirement party and one of them asked, "You must have liked teaching since you stayed with it so long." "Yes," she said, "I enjoyed it very much but what I liked most about teaching can be put into three words." "And what are those words?" she was asked. With a sigh and a smile she declared, "June, July and August!"

I asked George Gould how much mileage he was getting on his new car. He thought about it for a minute then said, "As near as I can figure out, I get five miles to the gallon. Johnny, my teenage son, gets the other 20."

I was an invited speaker at the Woburn Elks. My opening sentence was "They say that the best way to get people's attention is to tell a joke now and then." Don Harris shouted from the back of the hall, "Chipper, be sure to tell us when you do."

"Okay, Don," I said, "I'll announce my jokes and when I tell one I'll wait for Bill McGarr to explain it to you."

Paul Simon was driving his car to Florida for a two week vacation. He noticed a large sign on a gasoline station that

"Big Steps for Little People" Walk-a-thon

Among the walkers in training for the "Big Steps for Little People" Walk-a-thon are many of the families of the thousands of babies born and cared for in the Winchester Hospital Childbirth Center and Level II Special Care Nursery. The 6.2 mile walk-a-thon, to be held Sunday, May 23, will start at Winchester High School, proceed to Woburn's Horn Pond, and return to Winchester.

The route is ideal for family walking and pushing a stroller. For those who want a shorter distance, there will be a two to three mile route as well.

All proceeds from the Walk-a-thon will be used to support the services of Winchester Hospital's Childbirth Center and the Level II Special Care Nursery.

Alan Fujii, M.D.,

Neonatologist and Director of the Special Care Nursery recently spoke to the Winchester Rotary Club, the lead sponsor of the walk-a-thon. Dr. Fujii explained, "Winchester Hospital's Level II Special Care Nursery is affiliated with Boston's Joint Program in Neonatology. We offer 24-hour on-site pediatric specialists and are associated with the leading obstetric hospital north of Boston." Dr. Fujii is an honorary chair of the Walk-a-thon, sharing the honors with Mike Lynch (Channel 5 sportscaster) and his wife, Mary Ellen Lynch. The Lynch's three daughters were born at Winchester Hospital.

Judie Muggia, "Big Steps for Little People" Walk-a-thon Co-chair says, "Participation in the fundraising walk is a special way to show commitment to the good health of children. It's also an opportunity for friends, families, school groups and co-workers to join together to form a team of walkers and enjoy the pleasure of an active afternoon in Spring weather. With the help of volunteers at all levels, the event will accomplish its goals."

To find out how to get involved, call Winchester Hospital at (617) 756-2156.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

READING TALKS OVER-RIDE, AND TALKS AND TALKS - On March 23rd, Reading residents will vote on a $2,410,512 override.

The override covers the following: elimination of a rubbish fee; a level service school budget including salary increases; capital expenses such as a DPW loader and sidewalk plow, a cemetery backhoe, boiler replacement and fire truck rehab at the West Side Fire Station.

It would also include municipal expenses such as an increase in inspectors and community development secretary hours; tax lien work; library Sunday hours, books and materials; police training and vehicle fuel; fire EMT training; an additional dispatcher and street sweeping; benefits, salary adjustments and municipal salary increases.

The big news is that Carroll McMillan, president of the Reading Taxpayers Association - which has opposed previous overrides - proposed the override to Reading selectmen. The other news is that RTA member Annette Flanagan made it clear that McMillan does not speak for all RTA members.

According to the Reading edition of the Daily Times Chronicle, if the override passes, the average homeowner in Reading would see his or her property taxes increase by approximately $325 (based on a median home assessed value of $178,000).

"But," notes the Chronicle, "with the elimination of the trash fee and, assuming most homeowners itemize deductions on their federal income tax forms, a lower federal tax as a result of the property tax increase, the net increase for a homeowner is in the range of $50-60, depending on whose figures you use."

And Jean MacKaracher Thomas, Robert McMurray,

increase in the operating budget is .48 percent over last year's, with the total coming in at $5,368,840.

The addition of civilian dispatchers - three out of four requested - at a substantially lower rate has resulted in a 1.1 percent reduction in the police budget and more officers able to work the streets on motorcycle and in traffic. The police budget is $3,333,724.

The Fire Department budget has decreased by 1.3 percent to $3,081,410 because of three vacancies to be filled by entry level, lower paid firefighters. The department is planning to purchase an ambulance.

MALDEN SEEKS VOLUNTEERS - Volunteers are needed in Malden "to help clean up certain areas." Senior citizens are welcome, thank you. For more information, call (617) 322-4685.

Survivor From S-1

Hansen" and his lifeboat. "My first thought was to get away from the side of the ship. If she sank completely, we would have been pulled under. We were very lucky."

They were lucky because they drifted away from the ship, as there were no oars to make real progress. Realizing they had no control over where they were going, Klausen pulled down the canvass sail to put around his small band of survivors, in hopes that it would keep them a little warmer.

In the morning, about eight hours later, they found an empty can and tried to scoop out some of the water that flooded into the boat during the night. The effort would prove fruitless, as waves continued to flow over the sides.

"Our feet we're so swollen we could hardly move them. Only one had clothes on. I had only pajamas and the same with the rest. The messboy had a shirt on and nothing on the bottom, but you would hardly know it. We were all covered with black oil."

As the sun rose, Klausen and his compatriots had land in sight, but the headwind would keep them from moving toward it. He said he tried to keep spirits up by telling the crew that "it would only take a couple of hours" to reach shore, although he knew that was impossible.

Klausen estimates that around noontime, his nightmare ended. A "Canadian Corvette" was on the horizon, and eventually it spotted the lifeboat, and took them aboard.

The three dead men on the lifeboat were also brought aboard and prepared for burial. "That was a very sad sight for us to see our friends slide overboard. We were hoping that another ship may have picked up the rest of the crew, but to our disappointment, there were none."

Klausen was transported to a hospital in St. John, New Foundland where he stayed for about a month. Ten years ago, he requested his records from the same hospital, and to his surprise, they were still on file. "I thought that this was fantastic that they kept them after all these years."

Growing up on an island in the northern region of Norway, Klausen spent much of his time in and on the water, as many boys in the area did. Karl's father had a fishing vessel that he used to climb aboard. He quickly learned the tricks of the trade and a future captain was born.

By the age of 15, Klausen was able to handle all facets of boating and fishing. "You learned to be a man. You had to work hard. It was part of the way of living out there."

Convinced that he wanted to be a captain some day, Klausen joined the navy a few years later. That's when WWII got in the way of his plans. He was forced to stay away from his country for most of the war, and served on the "William Hansen" until it was sunk.

Today, he says he's glad he never became a captain. He got to meet his wife, Thelma, a Boston area native, while docked for a short time in Boston. Had he been a captain, he would not have had that opportunity.

The two met on Easter Day, in 1944 and were married three years later. Today, they live in a refurbished apartment behind their daughter's house in Winchester. They are also proud grandparents of two.

Being a captain, said Klausen "would have been fun, but it was getting late in life to be keeping on like that. I was getting a little old." At the outbreak of the war, he was preparing for a captain's position by being enrolled in classes at an academy in Norway.

Luckily, Klausen's village in Norway was located on an island, and was not ruined or burned by Nazis, as many Norwegian towns were. "They had a tough time in Norway during the war. You could get the death sentence just for having a radio."

Klausen returned to Norway about one year after the war. He said he would have gone home earlier, but he was still on-duty, traveling across the Atlantic.

After getting settled in America with his new wife, the Klausens took up residence in Burlington and Karl launched into his own business. And what type of business would that be? To the surprise of no one, Klausen chose the subject he knew best, ships.

After all, he had spent his entire life on ships so he might as well make a living off them. With a partner, he worked out of Boston and supplied ship parts for large cargo ships. He continued that business until retiring over a decade ago.

Klausen feels no hatred against Germans or their country. He recalled once, however, finding himself in disbelief when a German ship owner came to his port and proclaimed his leader, Adolph Hitler, to be a great man. This occurred 20 years after the war.

Klausen spends most of his time with Thelma and the grandchildren. But his passion for the sea has not diminished. In his backyard stands a 15-foot Viking ship that he made a few years ago. On a bookcase shelf in his living room is a miniature Sugaring time in Mass.

As the first signs of spring appear, so do reminders of how sweet it is in Massachusetts during maple sugaring season. From late February through April, ringlets of steam drift from the woods indicating maple syrup is being made nearby. The sap begins to flow as soon as the days become warmer but before the unpredictable New England evenings stop leaving a frost.

In the distinct language of "sugar speak," the process of collecting and moving the sap from the maple tree to the sugarhouse is known as gathering. The process begins with tapping, or drilling holes into tree trunks to remove the sap from the maple tree. The next step, filtering, occurs when the sugar sand is boiled to produce pure maple syrup. The sugarbush is the maple grove where trees are tapped and sap is collected. By late spring, budding begins and leaf buds begin to swell signaling the end of another fruitful season.

The tradition of maple sugaring has been around since the first settlers collected sap in hollowed out logs and steamed away the water by dropping in hot stones. In Colonial times, maple syrup was often the only sweetener available. Today, both old fashioned and more modern methods of sugaring are observed at maple farms in Massachusetts.

Sap to syrup demonstrations take place at various Massachusetts Audubon Sanctuaries.

The Massachusetts Maple Producers Association offers a free directory listing one hundred sugarhouses. From late February through early April, the Maple Phone, (413) 628-3912, gives callers daily reports on the boiling season. To receive a maple producers directory, write: Massachusetts Maple Producers Association, Watson-Spruce Corner Road, Ashfield, MA 01330. As local conditions can account for one sugarhouse boiling when another is not, visitors should call the house of their choice beforehand.

Blue Hills Trailside Museum (617-333-0690) in Milton offers instructional sugaring days, March 6-7. Families can learn about the process of tapping trees, watch how the syrup is made and hear stories about how Native Americans and pioneers used maple syrup. Samples are offered to all.

Relationships

begin in March and meet on Tuesday evenings. The program may be covered by a participant's health insurance plan.

version of his father's fishing vessel.

He was born on the sea and has made a life from the sea. And like many other people, he reads about the sea. However, Karl Klausen holds an insight, one that others can only read about:

Chester Hill Association (413-354-6337) in Chester holds the 8th Annual Maple Fest in the center of town, March 20, with a delicious Farmers' Breakfast. Horse-drawn wagons take visitors on tours of four local sugarhouses. Demonstrations take place throughout the day including Alaskan Huskies pulling dog sleds and oxen pulling sleds carrying the sap that has been gathered.

Hancock Shaker Village, (413-447-9357) a living history museum of Shaker life, crafts and farming in the 1830s, hosts Sugaring Day, March 13. Experience the sights, smells and sounds of a 200-year-old village and visit the sugarbush by sleigh or wagon.

In Central Massachusetts, Old Sturbridge Village (508-347-3362) offers maple sugaring activities 1830s-style all season. At the outdoor sugar camp, holes are bored into the trees with an auger, and spiles, cut from sumac bushes, are inserted. Programs are offered on school vacation weeks so the kids can enjoy this living history museum.

Farmers in most hilltown villages in Massachusetts honor the old New England tradition of maple sugaring. South Face Farm Sugarhouse (413-628-3268) in Ashfield has nearly 4,000 taps and lets visitors take self-guided tours into the sugarbush every weekend during sugaring season. Back in the farmhouse, guests can watch the syrup being made. The farm maintains a restaurant which serves french toast made with home-made bread, donuts with maple cream as well as a full breakfast all day long.

SCIENTISTS FLAP AND FEATHERS FLY

Massachusetts Audubon Society will present a lecture on Bird Origins on Thursday, March 11, 7:30 p.m. at Mass. Audubon's Endicott Regional Center, 346 Grapevine Rd., Wenham.

Some scientists claim that dinosaurs are not extinct and point to birds as evidence. Their rationale is based on Archaeopteryx, a 150 million year old fossil considered by many to be the first bird. Archaeopteryx is thought to have evolved from early bird-like dinosaurs, themselves 220 million years old.

The discovery of the fossil Protoaves in the late 1980s has caused some to change their minds. Protoaves is 225 million years old and its discoverer claims it is the first bird. If he is correct, Protoaves is too different to have evolved from the bird-like dinosaurs, and too different to have evolved from dinosaurs at all. Instead, Protoaves and birds would have evolved from those primitive reptiles which themselves gave rise to the dinosaurs.

ADJUST TO BEING A BROTHER OR SISTER

Adjusting to a new addition in the family can be difficult for everyone, especially for an older child who may feel that a new baby means he or she is no longer important. Helping youngsters understand about a new baby is important to ensure family harmony.

To help youngsters 2 1/2 to 10 years of age adjust to having a new baby in the home, a special program, "On Being a Sibling," will be held at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital on Monday, March 15. The program will be held from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. in Perkins Lecture Hall, 585 Lebanon Street in Melrose. Registration is required and there is a $10 fee per family.

Families are encouraged to attend together to learn more about helping an older child make a healthy adjustment to a new brother or sister. The program offers helpful tips for parents, such as minimizing sibling rivalry, and how to talk to your child before and after the birth of the baby. Instructors will speak directly with children about what they can do for their new brother or sister and each child will make a special bib for their new sibling.

To register for "On Being a Sibling" or for more information, call the Childbirth Education Department at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, (617) 979-3408 or (617) 979-3515.

--WOBURN ADDRESSES TEEN RELATIONSHIPS - Because teen violence and teen relationships have been a major concern for Woburn school officials and police this year, Woburn Assistant Superintendent of Schools Louise M. Nolan has developed a Teen Relationship Curriculum.

Thanks to Nolan's coordination, teachers Barbara Pooler, Nancy Whalen and Jackie Cavanaugh as well as DARE officers Gerald Scalley and John Mills have been trained in the curriculum which has focused recently on seventh graders because they are at a "pivotal" age.

According to Nolan, the program's goals are to help decrease domestic violence, help students establish their gender roles and decrease gender stereotyping. The program aims to help students develop an increased ability to recognize danger signs in a relationship, better understand emotions such as jealousy and how to control it, and take steps so they do not become victims of any type of abuse.

--BURLINGTON SUPERINTENDENT BUDGETS PRIORITIES - Burlington Superintendent of Schools Robert Neely is tackling the fiscal '94 school budget by suggesting it follow the mission statement of the Burlington Public Schools adopted in October 1991.

That mission, should the School Committee and townspeople choose to reaffirm it, would have them "help all students acquire organized knowledge, master physical and intellectual skills, and understand ideas in ways that foster a positive self-image and lead to life-long learning, self-sufficiency and responsible citizenship."

His target budget is $18,921,360, a 1.5 percent increase over last year's and includes salary increases. A $25,000 variance for LABB tuition fees brings the total to $18,946,360 which could be balanced out by savings from the early retirement plan.

Neely's priorities fall into the following categories: the classroom; support services for the classroom; extra-curricular activities; and transportation. His mission includes adding a fulltime kindergarten teacher and a three-day-a-week art teacher at a cost of about $80,000 - to be countered by subtracting a custodial worker and a maintenance worker for a savings of about $65,000 and cutting transportation by about $50,000.

The committee will meet weekly to complete the budget for Ways and Means review prior to Town Meeting in May.

"LEEP" procedure effective in pre-cancerous treatment

What a woman can't see or feel may indeed hurt her. That is why annual pap smears are an absolute necessity. Pap smears are the best way to detect cervical cancer and other problems before they threaten a woman's fertility or even her life.

The rate of cervical cancer has skyrocketed during the past two decades in the United States and Western Europe, and physicians and researchers are working to keep pace. Once a pap smear shows signs of trouble, physicians can do more than ever before to detect and treat cervical lesions and cervical cancer.

Loop Electrosurgical Excision Procedure (LEEP) is a major advance in diagnosing and removing damaged or precancerous cervical tissue: LEEP is fast, highly effective and can be performed under local anesthesia in the gynecologist's office.

"LEEP is a great breakthrough for gynecologists and their patients alike," says Nicholas Pantelakis, M.D., an obstetrician-gynecologist (ob/gyn) affiliated with Melrose-Wakefield Hospital. "Now we can diagnosis and treat cervical lesions and diseases in one office visit. The procedure is fast, economical and more effective than any other technique available today."

After an abnormal pap smear, when a cervical lesion is detected or there is reason to believe that cancerous cells are present, a woman's gynecologist may recommend LEEP. During the procedure, the physician uses a fine, wire loop to cut precancerous cells from the cervix. The tissue is removed and, if necessary, examined further by a pathologist. It takes just 10 to 15 minutes to remove tissue with this technique; and the entire procedure lasts only about five minutes.

A study published in the February 1992 issue of Obstetrics and Gynecology found that LEEP's success rate is as high as 94 percent in removing disease tissue when LEEP is used to treat cervical lesions for the first time.

As with any type of surgery, there are possible risks and post-operative concerns involved with LEEP. Some patients may experience menstrual-type cramping in the lower back and abdomen. They may also experience spotting and staining for two or three days after the procedure. LEEP poses only a minor risk of infection. A follow-up visit to the gynecologist is scheduled three months after the initial procedure.

Despite these risks, studies of LEEP have found the technique safer and more effective than laser surgery. "LEEP is improving our ability to diagnose invasive cancers that techniques such as cryotherapy and laser surgery sometimes fail to detect," says Pantelakis.

"LEEP is just one more reason for women to be sure to have an annual Pap smear," says Dr. Pantelakis. "A Pap smear can detect problems early on, and LEEP can be used before major complications develop."

Dr. Nicholas Pantelakis has his private practice at 268 Salem St. in Lynnfield. Appointments with Dr. Pantelakis may be made by calling his office at (617) 592-0123.

Free Sellers Seminar March 10 in Reading

OWNERS OF COLONIAL MANOR REALTY, Bobbie Botticelli and Rick Nazzaro, invite the public to attend the free Sellers Seminar on March 10.

Because selling a home can be a confusing and complex experience, Colonial Manor Realty will be hosting a free Sellers Seminar on Wednesday evening, March 10. Planning to make a move now or in the future, this Seminar is an important event not to be missed. The Seminar's goal is to help take the mystery out of the selling process.

On hand to answer all questions and to lend insight to the process and implications of selling will be Colonial Manor Realty realtors plus attorneys, tax professionals, lenders and home inspectors.

Issues to be discussed will include: pricing a home, marketing a home, how to sell and then buy, legal concerns, tax implications when selling and how to prepare a house for sale.

The Seminar will be held at both Colonial Manor Realty locations - 127 Franklin Street in Reading (across from Marshall's) and 133 Park Street in North Reading (next to the library). The evening begins at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, March 10 - (although the public is welcome to come at anytime). As seating is limited, please call for reservations. In Reading call 617-944-6300 and in North Reading call 508-664-5857.

This year the Massachusetts Association of Conservation Districts has joined with local Districts to promote The Massachusetts Forest Stewardship Program. Through their annual tree seedling sale, many Conservation Districts are featuring plants that reflect the values of this new program.

The program is funded by the U.S. Forest Service and administered by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Management, Division of Forests & Parks. For information on joining Forest Stewardship, write to MACD, 319 Littleton Road, Suite 205, Dept.

SP, Westford, MA 01886.

District sale items include a variety of tree seedlings such as conifer, fruit and nut trees that provide food and cover for wildlife. Flowering shrubs and other selections will beautify the landscape and may also help to prevent soil erosion. In Middlesex County, a tree seedling sale brochure is available by sending a self-addressed stamped (business size) envelope to the Middlesex Conservation District, 319 Littleton Road, Suite 205, Westford, MA 01886. Seeding orders are placed by mail for pickup at a central location. All orders must be received by March 12.

"Falling Down" Short Takes

"Falling Down" Starring Michael Douglas, Robert Duvall, Barbara Hershey, Rachel Ticotin. Directed by Joel Schumacher. Written by Ebbe Roe Smith. Produced by Arnold Kopelson, Herschel Weingrod, Timothy Harris. Rated R.

Ugly and mean, "Falling Down" is the kind of movie that makes you want to take a shower after sitting through it. This story of white, middle-class, male urban outrage is supposed to be fraught with black humor. I didn't find it funny. Not a little. Not at all.

Michael Douglas plays a defense worker whose life is crumbling around him. With his expectations goes his sanity. And though the story sends a bombastic message of intolerance, you can't find any fault with Douglas' delivery. As the movie opens, Douglas is sitting in his crummy little car, sweltering in a traffic jam and angrily swatting at a fly. The rage in him escapes as a grimace, a tight sigh. It's to Douglas' credit that we feel his frustration as it flickers across his face. We know exactly where this guy, nicknamed D-Fens, is coming from. The problem is where he is going.

Abandoning his car in the traffic, D-Fens begins the long walk home to his ex-wife (Barbara Hershey) and daughter, even though he is not wanted and certainly not welcome. His first stop is at a convenience store, where the Korean clerk won't give him change to make a phone call. Not only that, but the clerk speaks with a thick accent and charges too much for his wares! Boom, crash. Douglas pummels the guy and wrecks his store.

Using a small arsenal of weapons he acquires along the way to blast and scare a few dopey white people, most of D-Fens' anger is spent on minorities he feels have infringed on his right to the American dream. While no one could argue against the frustration and rage of life in an overcrowded, economically depressed society, this message of vengeful hatred is frightening. Not once does director Joel Schumacher or writer Ebbe Roe Smith suggest the bad guys might be an uncaring government in bed with big business.

As the movie unfolds, there are a few stabs at spreading the violence around, so a white road worker and a pompous white golfer get theirs too. This doesn't undermine the movie's anti-minority stance, but only increases the venom already dripping from the film.

The flip side of the story features Robert Duvall as a cop we are repeatedly told is celebrating his last day on the force. His neurotic wife (Tuesday Weld) wants him home with her, and the guys at work think he's a cowardly jerk for retiring early. It isn't until D-Fens blows away several people and destroys a lot of property that his co-workers believe Duvall when he says he can finger the vigilante. But Duvall doesn't garner any dignity until he berates Weld and displays a little violence of his own.

Cliches aside, the actors turn out convincing performances. The message here may be brutal, but the actors did wonders with their complex characters. Hershey is especially compelling as Douglas' frightened but capable ex-wife and Duvall masterly hides his own anger and disappointment behind a tight smile.

Urban frustration is a common and complex problem. Had the writer and director tackled it with genuine humor or even a less cartoonish anti-hero, "Falling Down" may have felt less threatening. As it stands, this message of intolerance hidden behind entertainment is both damaging and irresponsible.

The Vanishing is a remake of the Dutch thriller whose original director, George Sluizer, went Hollywood for this version. Kiefer Sutherland is obsessed with finding his fiancée, who disappeared at a gas station three years earlier. Jeff Bridges is a professor conducting his own experiments of good and evil. The ending spins out of control and Bridges' performance is strange, but Sutherland is believable as a sad, obsessed man who can't get on with his life. Rated R.  1/2

Damage stars Jeremy Irons as the stuffy British politician who begins a steamy affair with his son's fiancée, Juliette Binoche. The much ballyhooed sex scenes are the film's weak point, whereas Miranda Richardson steals the show as Irons' wife, a woman who becomes as damaged as his young lover. Rated R.  1/2

Alive is the true story of a soccer team's plane that crashed in the Andes in 1972 and those who lived to tell about it. Sensitive and technically appealing, the film relies too much on the action/adventure aspects of the young athletes' survival. It may capture the glories of nature in all its terrible beauty, but we are left longing for more of the psychological glue that kept these people together. Rated R. ***

Used People is a disarming tale of a tough Jewish family, lead by recently widowed matriarch Shirley MacLaine, that is coaxed into taking a chance on happiness by gregarious Marcello Mastroianni. This warm and funny flick may be a bit too sentimental, but you won't mind, as the acting is top notch and the dialogue sharp and witty. Rated PG-13. ***

Scent of a Woman gives Al Pacino a chance to knock our socks off as a blind army veteran who hires an unwilling prep school student (BC student Chris O'Donnell) to guide him around New York City for one wild weekend. The story unfolds in typical Hollywood fashion, but go to see Pacino's performance, you won't be disappointed. His fine acting and some clever language save it from being too precious. Rated R. ***

A Few Good Men is a powerful drama set in a military courtroom starring Tom Cruise, Demi Moore and Jack Nicholson. In spite of rather uneven pacing, this movie is packed with strong performances and a dynamite ending. It also manages to sidestep numerous stereotypes as it builds layered and believable characters. Rated R.  1/2

Aladdin may not be a Disney classic, but it is a lot of fun, Robin Williams' witty performance as a big blue genie is a non-stop vaudevilian act, as he hurls jokes to the kiddies before flinging others at their parents. The music may not blow you away and the animation is less than lush, but the rat-a-tat humor and strong characters make this a success. Rated G.  1/2

Sommersby is an emotionally rich and eye-pleasing Civil War romance in which plantation owner Richard Gere returns to his wife Jodie Foster a changed man. In fact, he may not even be the same man. Powerful, sweeping and memorable, this is a throw back to Hollywood's epic past and shouldn't be missed. Rated PG-13. ****

A mother shouted to her son sleeping upstairs, "Hurry up and get up, John, or you will be late for school." "I'm not getting up and I'm not going to school." The poor mother rushed upstairs and said, "Why aren't you going to school? Give me two good reasons." "Okay, Ma, the kids all hate me and the teachers hate me, too, so you give me two good reason why I should go to school." "Well, number one, you're 39 years old and number two, you're the principal!"

Paul Simon had a near perfect day on the golf course yesterday. He only fell out of the golf cart once. Kathy said to me, "Hey, Fatso, how come you have been playing golf in a new foursome? Why don't you play with Brian Eddy of Reading, Peter D'Arrigo of Concord and Tom Ciovacco of Malden anymore?"

"Would you play golf with someone who moves the ball with his foot when he thinks that no one is looking?" "Of course not!" she shouted. "Well," I said, "they won't either."

Folks, I always wear two pairs of pants when I go golfing, just in case I get a "Hole in One." I can almost hear Ed Fogelberg of Burlington groan after reading that Chip.

Tony Stack is an avid golfer, like the Postal Service. Neither cold, snow, rain or sleet will stop Tony from playing nine holes every Saturday morning. He was about to tee off on the eighth hole when he noticed a funeral procession slowly wending its way on a road along side the golf course. He stopped addressing the ball, stood at attention with his hat held over his heart, then later resumed playing. The players kidded him up at the clubhouse saying, "A funeral is the only thing that will stop you from playing golf." "Well," Tony replied, "I had to pay my respects. After all I was married to her for over 35 years."

Folks, if any readers are "Night Owls," you may hear me on the Bob Raleigh show on WBZ sometime between one and five in the morning. Bob has mentioned Woodchips several times from reading the column in the Burlington edition of the Daily Time Chronicle. I started being on radio with Jess Cain for about two years then with Charlie Jeffers, Tom Bergeron, Ron Robins, Dave Maynard, etc. The first joke I ever told was on Marathon Day. I told Jess Cain that "Two silkworms were in a race and they both ended up in a 'tie'." Jess thought it was so bad he kept me on for two years. I loved talking to his engineer, Pudge Flynn.

There are over 2000 people who work at the New England Produce Center in Chelsea and over 1000 of them live in the Middlesex East Area. I have a wonderful time every time I go there because many of them are readers of the Supplement.

Dreamboats - Danielle Cirigliano and Maryann Ballotta, both of Stoneham; Megan Landry, Tewksbury; and Sharon DelGenio, Saugus.

Super Stars - Bob Raleigh, Burlington; Brian Eddy, Reading; Peter D'Arrigo, Concord; Tom and Rita Ciovacco, Malden; Marguerite Main, Stoneham; and Brian and Jay Boyle, Woburn.
